FORMER REGULAR SOLDIERS AND THE ARMY.

Place for Them in N.G. or Organized Reserves.

To the end that the services of former enlisted men of the Regular Army may be utilized in building up the Army of the United States through the agency of duty with the National Guard and the Organized Reserves, Secretary of War Weeks on March 8 issued an announcement concerning the policies of the War Department as to those two components of the Army "for the information and guidance of soldiers discharged from the Regular Army." After stating the approved policies of the department, based on the Army Reorganization act of June 4, 1920, the announcement says:

The Regular Army and the National Guard will be developed to the strength authorized by law, and the Organized Reserves will be organized as divisions and auxiliary troops with complete officer personnel and sufficient enlisted personnel to be capable of rapid assimilation of the numbers required to form full-strength units. Every trained soldier discharged from the Regular Army has a potential value to the nation, and if this training is maintained and prolonged in the National Guard or in the Organized Reserves, it will continue as an active asset to the Army of the United States. In order that discharged enlisted men who do not desire to re-enlist in the Regular Army may continue to serve in the Army of the United States, if they so desire, all such soldiers hereafter honorably discharged will be impressed with the importance of the obligation they owe to their country.

The personal advantages of enlistment in the National Guard and Organized Reserves are substantially as follows: Service in the National Guard does not of necessity conflict with civil pursuits, and has many attractive features for honorably discharged soldiers returning to civil life. Among the more important of these are: (A) The opportunities offered by association with young men active in the civil, business and social life of the various communities, which cannot fail to be an aid and benefit to those desiring civil employment. (B) Honorably discharged soldiers of the Regular Army are always welcomed on account of their military training in the armories of the National Guard, where facilities for recreation and acquaintanceship are exceptional. (C) Enlistment in the National Guard carries pay for privates at the rate of $1 per drill of not less than one and one-quarter hour's duration, and an appropriate increase for specialists, non-commissioned officers and officers at the rate of one-thirtieth the pay of like grades in the Regular Army, for each drill attended. Sixty drills per year are set as the maximum. In no case shall this drill pay exceed $500 per annum. In addition to drill pay, such troops receive the full base pay of their grades during fifteen days' annual field service. (D) There is no restriction upon promotion which is based on efficiency and qualifications. Practically all commissioned officers of the National Guard began their service as privates in the ranks.

Service in the Organized Reserves is attractive for discharged soldiers who desire to accept a limited obligation only and who desire to continue their training only during the annual fifteen days' field service period, as provided by law. During training periods members receive the pay and allowances of their grades. No other duty is required of the Organized Reserves except in the event of war. Honorably discharged soldiers of the Regular Army may enlist in the Enlisted Reserve Corps in the highest grade shown on a discharge certificate. Regulations for the organizations of combat and administrative units of the Organized Reserves have been promulgated. These regulations and regulations for the Enlisted Reserve Corps which will follow shortly, contain complete information as to the requirements for enlistment, the opportunities afforded for promotion and the objects and details of the organization. Until the organization of the Reserves is effected, soldiers honorably discharged from the Regular Army who desire to enlist in the Organized Reserves will be instructed to forward their applications to the commander of the department or the corps area in which their homes are located, who will advise them at the proper time where enlistments may be made.

The foregoing information relative to the National Guard and the Organized Reserves will be conveyed to each soldier honorably discharged from the Regular Army and who does not desire to re-enlist therein, by his immediate commanding officer, at the time of his discharge, and such soldiers will be urged to continue their military service. Every assistance will be rendered to secure this end. Department and corps area commanders will issue the necessary instructions to the end that soldiers honorably discharged from the Regular Army may be fully informed on the above subject, and that the detailed information required to place them in touch with local authorities may be made available.

"HIGHBROWS" AND THE STAFF.

As to the list of eligibles for appointment to the General Staff a comment arrives from the Philippines, somewhat belatedly. An officer there writes that while he has not yet seen the list of eligibles the comment he hears indicates that it "contains almost exclusively the names of highbrows or near-beer highbrows." Confessing himself a "low-brow," our correspondent thus discusses the subject: "A near-beer highbrow is not much like a real highbrow except in looks; a little patter always on tap about highbrow subjects; wants to be among those present and does not worry particularly over how to put the U.S. to the front in the next war. The real highbrow worries over that very thing all of the time and our hats are off to him. Even so, the real highbrows should be a little bit more representative. They incline to stick very close to type. Leavenworth and the Staff College seem to turn out distinguished graduates who look and think exactly alike. Some of these men are really versatile and are equally good at handling soldiers on the march and in action, and in putting the Artillery on the right contour. But I have known some who always 'maxed' the map, but who had a mutinous company in a week after taking command. I know another chap, who could not to save his soul make a map that would net him one and five-tenths, who during the late unpleasantness took a mutinous regiment and in a few months got them commended by the major general commanding for discipline, efficiency and coolness and gallantry in action. We are not out of danger of making the German mistake in our Army. Their way was everything done by machinery, and then, possibly, a few complimentary appointments that, like kisses, went by favor. At all of the schools we should have courses in 'Estimating Officers.' It is the one 'estimate' in which we fall down the oftenest. A general or commanding officer should be able to measure those under him as a tailor measures his cloth for a suit of clothes.

If you give a big man a little job you make an enemy, and if you give a little man a big job you make trouble. A representative General Staff would be nearer the Army and better for the Army than a General Staff made up exclusively of real highbrows and near-beer highbrows."

THE QUESTION OF PROMOTION.

A Medical Officer's Viewpoint.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL:

In your issue of Sept. 25, 1920 (page 97), you say: "Equally clearly, the proportions (of officers in the several grades) for the Medical and Dental Corps were excessive," and give a table of percentages in each field grade. In your Feb. 5, 1921, issue (page 645) you say that the percentages adopted (in the act of June 4, 1920) "were arrived at after a consideration of the distribution of officers of the line under the act of June 3, 1916, which clearly provided too few in the field grades: of the distribution of officers of the Medical Corps under that act, which just as clearly provided too many in the field grades." Officers of twenty years' service who have followed the various plans for Army reorganization proposed know that the inequality in proportions shown is only one item in a complex situation and that the conclusion so positively announced is unwarranted when all the facts in the case are known; the younger officers and especially the large number recently commissioned from civil life are the only ones who can be misled by the statement in question.

Those who have studied Army personnel problems understand that the line and staff corps have entirely different propositions to handle. For example, the line has no difficulty in filling its quota of commissioned officers. Vacancies after assignment of West Point graduates and men promoted from the ranks can always be filled from civil life. But in the matter of arranging its promotion the line is seriously handicapped by the demands of its numerous organizations for lieutenants and captains. Out of fifty officers of a regiment, forty-five are in the three lower grades and only five in the field grades. An officer ordinarily spends his army career in six grades, unless he is selected for a general officer.

The problem of arranging a "reasonable flow of promotion" through these grades when organizational requirements demand that ninety per cent. of the officers shall be in the three lower grades and the law allows only four per cent. in the grade of colonel and four and one-half per cent. in the grade of lieutenant colonel has not been solved and the solution for it is being eagerly sought. When the adjustments incident to the arrangement of the single line for promotion are completed some well balanced system, other than that of simply advancing officers as vacancies due to death, resignation or retirement (voluntary or otherwise) occur, will undoubtedly be found and put into effect.

On the other hand, the Medical Corps has no organizational requirements demanding a large number of its officers in lower grades, but it has great difficulty in securing doctors to fill its ranks. For the last fifteen years its quota has never been full and it has been constantly necessary to hire civilian doctors on a temporary basis. A number of circumstances in civil life have combined to bring about a scarcity of doctors, and it may be remarked here that if present conditions were to continue indefinitely it would be difficult to meet the demands of the Army if all Medical officers were originally commissioned in the grade of major, instead of 32.3 per cent., the rate which has been designated as excessive. However, the unusual inducements offered in medicine today make it probable that more men will study medicine.

It is apparent, therefore, that the personnel problems of the line and of the Medical Corps are very different and demand different treatment. Any attempt to tie them together, as was proposed last year when it was suggested that each Medical officer be assigned a "running mate" in the line, could only result in further complicating the entire promotion problem. The adoption of the single line for promotion seems to be a great step in advance, but it can be carried so far as to become detrimental. Congress has continuously recognized these differences in organizational problems, and, for the Medical Corps, has endeavored to offer sufficient inducement to secure an adequate number of well qualified officers for the Army and at the same time to so limit the inducements that a reasonable parity of age, position and emolument will exist between Medical and all other officers. It has recognized the necessity for compensating the Medical officer entering the Service for the five or six years of study and the $5,000 to $10,000 expenditure for medical education by admitting him in the grade of first lieutenant and promoting him to captain after three years' service. This gives him an advantage over the line officer in the lower grades which the tables below show is gradually absorbed as the field grades are reached, and the officers come to the grade of major at very nearly the same age. The officers selected for comparison are the last ones shown in the 1920 Army Register, commissioned in the several branches of the Service in 1901, 1905, 1910 and 1915. They have remained continuously in one branch and their position is not the result of transfer from one branch to another or of special legislation.

than one would be led to infer from the complaints heard.

The distribution of officers for the Medical Corps would be cited by a Medical officer as inadequate in an argument presenting the need for more rapid promotion for the corps. This distribution dates back to 1908. For four years previous to that the question as to the proper distribution of Medical officers in grades had been under discussion in Congress. It was the subject of strong recommendation by two Secretaries of War and of a special message by President Roosevelt. Like most legislation of this kind, it was a compromise and it did not give the Medical Department all the inducement it thought it ought to have. However, no other specific item in Army organization tables is based on such a full discussion or has such a weight of eminent and impartial authority back of it. During the twelve years that it was in force Medical officers visited the medical colleges each year, endeavoring to get doctors for the Army, and it was impossible to secure the number needed. Would not this justify an appeal to Congress on the ground that distribution of Medical officers in the several grades afforded an insufficient inducement and to request an increase in the percentages in the field grades?

In the meantime, the Medical Corps has been granted a complete system of promotion which provides a movement through the several grades, based on length of service. It is not entirely satisfactory to all and can probably be improved upon, but it is so much more complete and practical than anything that anybody else has at this time that the Medical Corps may well consider it worth keeping for the present at least. The Medical Corps was not permitted to reorganize on the basis of an army of 300,000 men as all the other branches did before applying the new system of promotion, but was forced to remain on the basis of 180,000 men. When the Army was increased 66.2-3 per cent. the field officers were increased; in the Engineers, 34 per cent.; Cavalry, 174 per cent.; Field Artillery, 218 per cent.; Coast Artillery, 271 per cent.; Infantry, 151 per cent., and the Medical Corps, slightly diminished. Justice would have been done the Medical Corps and no injustice done any one else had the law been so drawn that the Medical Corps could have been reorganized, as was done with the balance of the Army.

It is true, however, that it was not possible to foresee how the scheme for the single line would work out until the number of new officers to be introduced into each branch and grade was determined. Now that this has been settled, it is believed that a proper adjustment of Medical Corps rank will be considered by Congress at a suitable time.

NAMES OF DRAFT EVADERS TO BE PUBLISHED.

Instructions were sent to Major Gen. P. C. Harris, The Adjutant General, by Secretary of War Weeks on March 9 that publication of the names of all men who evaded the operation of the Selective Service law be published as soon as the Selective Service boards of the country had completed their check of the lists. In making public this fact Secretary Weeks said: "One of the reasons the names have not been given out before was the fact that a great many of the men on the lists have been found to have served in the British and French armies and with our own Navy, according to information I have received from Chief of Staff March. I believe it has been entirely wise to withhold these names until it had been definitely determined that each man thereon had not actually given his service to the nation." General Harris announced on the same day that none of the lists was available at present because the check of them had not been completed by the Selective Service boards.

NOTES OF THE ARMY.

Study of the Infantry Pack.

The Infantry Board is making a study of the Infantry pack, including the haversack, toilet kit, mess kit, etc. Any suggestions for the improvement of the pack will be welcomed, and may be sent to the office of the Chief of Infantry, Washington, D.C., or direct to the president of the Infantry Board, Camp Benning, Ga.

Ordnance Expert with Infantry Board.

An ordnance expert has been detailed to the Infantry Board in an advisory capacity at the request of the Chief of Infantry and approved by the Chief of Ordnance and the War Department. It is believed that his advice as to the development of any particular plan of the Infantry Board will be of special value on the question whether, if carried out, the plan will be practical from a manufacturing point of view. It is also believed duplication of work may be prevented by the Ordnance Department and the Infantry Board by this intermediary officer and from the results so far obtained the experiment has been fully justified. Major G. P. Wilhelm, O.D., is detailed for duty at Camp Benning in this capacity.

Infantry Company Distinguishing Flags.

Distinguishing flags are to be issued to Infantry companies of the type described in Par. 235 (c), Army Regulations, until the supply is exhausted, according to an order of the Secretary of War issued on March 11. The flags are as follows: For rifle and machine gun companies, a flag with blue field, in the center on both sides a square of white seven inches on the side; regimental number in the upper portion and letter of company in lower portion of the blue field on both sides; letters and numbers to be in white. Service companies will be shown by the letter "S" and headquarters companies by the letters "HQ" in white; howitzer companies by the letters "HZ," with both regimental number and company letter in red. The collar insignia to be issued to enlisted men of Infantry companies will be as follows: Machine gun companies same as that issued to rifle companies of the regiment, with appropriate letter; howitzer companies with letters "HZ"; headquarters and service companies similar to former headquarters and supply companies.

General Staff Officers with Troops.

Communications received at the War Department showing that the function of the General Staff with Troops, and its relation to the various branches and bureaus, is not fully understood, have caused the War Department to direct the attention of the commanding generals of corps areas and departments to Section III, G.O. No. 48, W.D., 1920. This order presents in detail the functions of the several divisions of the General Staff. Attention is also directed to Par. 6, G.O. No. 75, W.D., 1920, which provides that the duties of the General Staff with Troops shall conform to the distribution among the several divisions of the War Department General Staff. It is intended by the War Department that each assistant chief of staff in corps areas or departments shall exercise necessary supervision over all branches of the Army and not assume exclusive control over any one. Each of these assistant chiefs of staff necessarily will be more concerned with some branches than with others, but this is not to be permitted to place any branch in the attitude of operating under any particular assistant. With these instructions a chart showing the outline of the organization has also been submitted.

Cadence Drill for Artillery and Reviews.

After using the "Cadence System of Close Order Drill" in the 2d Division for five months, Major Gen. James G. Harbord, commanding general of the division, wrote a letter of appreciation to Major Bernard Lentz, Inf., U.S.A., who evolved the system. After giving details of its use in training 6,000 recruits in the period referred to General Harbord wrote that "the interest of instructors has resulted in a general enlargement upon the system, with the cadence system as a basis, until now, it even embraces the Artillery standing gun drill, general orders, passing in review and, in fact, every form of instruction where the man undergoing instruction can give his own command and recite or count cadence while executing it. . . . My personal observation of the results obtained in training recruits in this division by use of the cadence system, is such as to cause me to commend the principle upon which it is built as being the best and most practical system yet devised. Like any other system its success is entirely dependent upon its application, but as has been proven in this command, an instructor, with a clear knowledge of the details and a belief in its correctness will obtain most remarkable results."

Signal Corps Develops Amplifier for Medical Use.

The Signal Corps has developed an amplifier of sound to such a degree of perfection that with its use the actual working of the valves and the flow of the blood in the heart can be distinctly heard in a large auditorium. This contribution to medical science cannot at this time be accurately estimated, but Lieut. Col. Roger Brooks, of the Surgeon General's Office, who witnessed the demonstration in Washington on March 12, indicated that possibly sounds of the working of the heart heretofore inaudible, amplified by this instrument, may aid materially in the detection of any irregularities, of the heart circulation. He stated that in all probability experiments would be conducted to prove its practicability, and that it would require perhaps six months to determine its value to the medical profession to any degree of accuracy. Major Gen. George O. Squier, Chief Signal Officer, pointed out that a patient could be on board a ship in mid-ocean, and by the use of radio telephony, physicians could sit in consultation in a hospital on land, and easily detect the sound of every movement of the heart. The instrument consists of a special heart transmitter which rests by its own weight over the patient's heart. The passage of the blood through the different valves of the heart causes vibrations in an air chamber which reproduces all of the various actions of the blood passing through the valves of the heart. These vibrations are transmitted over a wire to an amplifying apparatus which consists of a group of regular standard Signal Corps vacuum tubes such as are used in wireless telephony and telegraphy reception, and when amplified actuate a special receiver attached to a large horn which projects the sounds through the building. The apparatus is made possible by the use of the high frequency current, invented by General Squier in 1910, which eliminates all foreign sounds heard in the ordinary telephone. The same wire used to transmit the sound of the heart action may also be used at the same time for telephonic conversation.

OFFICERS' RESERVE CORPS LOSSES.

Withdrawals Due to Lack of Activity.

Since the enactment of the Army Reorganization law of June 4, 1920, approximately 2,200 withdrawals from the Officers' Reserve Corps have been recorded in The Adjutant General's office. This loss is attributed generally to the fact that there has grown up among the members of the corps a feeling of impatience with the War Department because there has not been more celerity shown in the adoption of general policies and regulations governing the Officers' Reserve Corps, and also to the failure of Congress to grant appropriations for calling Reserve officers to active duty for training purposes. Resignations from Reserve officers had reached such a volume that on March 11 a statement was issued by direction of the Secretary of War relative to the status of Reserve Corps activities which was to be communicated to Reserve officers before accepting their resignations. It reads:

"On account of the necessity for economy in expenditures and other considerations it will be possible, in the immediate future, to call but a very small number of Reserve officers to active duty for training purposes. Prior to June 30 no Reserve officer will be called to active duty for training without his consent. Available funds and other considerations will probably make it impossible to call all those officers who request active duty for short periods of training. During the time specified, to June 30, the organization of units of the Organized Reserve and the assignment of Reserve officers thereto will be proceeded with. Such assignments will not demand a material amount of time of Reserve officers.

"The present number of Reserve officers is insufficient. Those who now hold commissions are urged to defer any withdrawal from the Reserve contemplated by them until the Organized Reserve has been formed and definite policies for its training formulated. When such has been done and regulations governing the Officers' Reserve Corps have been published, Reserve officers will have a better understanding of their obligations, duties and privileges and will be better qualified to determine whether or not other interests necessitate their withdrawal from the Officers' Reserve Corps. The present Reserve consists of veteran officers of the World War whose moral and material assistance in the building up of the Organized Reserve will be a very material factor in the efficiency of that force and the state of preparedness of our reserve forces."

The regulations for the Officers' Reserve Corps and the Organized Reserve have been formulated and are expected to be approved and ready for publication before the first of April.

In the losses by resignations from the O.R.C. from June 30, 1920, to Jan. 31, 1921, the Infantry, Field Artillery and Air Service suffered most. The losses by branches of the Service are as follows: Infantry, 704; Field Artillery, 456; Air Service, 364; Corps of Engineers, 189; Quartermaster Corps, 131; Dental Corps, 109; Ordnance Department, 92; Coast Artillery Corps, 72; Chaplains, 28; Medical Corps, 18; Veterinary Corps, 3. In the same period slight gains were made as follows: J.A.G. Department, 44; Cavalry, 4; Medical Administrative Corps, 3; Signal Corps, A.G. Department and I.G. Department, one each. The Finance Department and Chemical Warfare Service, being new branches in the Reserve Corps, had 14 and 11 officers accredited to them on Jan. 31. Since that time the number in the Finance Department has increased to nearly forty-five, and that of the Chemical Warfare Service to approximately fifty. The Finance Department expects its Reserve Corps strength to greatly increase as soon as it is made known that under certain conditions transfers may be made to the Finance Department from other branches of the Service, as many letters are being received, especially from officers in the Quartermaster Corps, inquiring how the transfer may be accomplished. Until the regulations governing the Organized Reserve are approved no definite advice can be given. The great majority of reasons given by Reserve officers for desiring to resign from the Corps of Engineers, it is claimed, is that the officer fears he might be called into active duty for training at the summer camps right at the time when he could not leave his professional duties without financial loss to himself and his employer, as the greater portion of engineer construction is done in the summer months. This impression is erroneous, as the law specifically states that no officer shall be called into training duty prior to July 1, 1922, without his consent, unless in case of an emergency.

APPOINTMENTS OF GENERAL OFFICERS.

There are at present eleven vacancies in the rank of major general and twenty-five in the rank of brigadier general. The list sent up by former Secretary of War Baker could not be brought before the Senate at the last session because of the objection of Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, although strenuous effort to bring up the nominations was made from time to time by Senator Robinson. The list, it is understood, is in the hands of Secretary of War Weeks and has received his close study, and it is safe to predict that the list of major generals will remain substantially as originally formulated, with one exception. The understanding is that Brig. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, ranking brigadier general, is to be appointed to major general, and it is now expected that he will head the list of appointees to that grade. As confirmation will not be possible until the extra session in April, and in the meantime a vacancy will be made by the retirement of Major Gen. Hunter Liggett, it will not be necessary to make any other change in the original list, General Edwards being nominated to fill the vacancy caused by General Liggett's retirement.

Whether there will be changes in the list of the colonels and lieutenant colonels who were appointed to fill vacancies in the rank of brigadier general is a matter which is yet undecided. It can be said that some members of Congress are inclined to press for further consideration before this list is resubmitted, and that an effort is being made to have the War Department disclose the list of officers eligible for appointment to the rank of general officer. This eligible list, which would be of very great interest to the officers of the Army, has not been available since it was formulated by the board of five major generals of the line in June, 1920. It is reported that the list has been amended since that time and that one or more colonels were added to it by direction of Secretary Baker. It is considered highly probable that should the eligible list continue to be held as a confidential document in the War Department a resolution will be introduced in the House early in the extraordinary session, calling upon the Secretary of War to furnish Congress with a copy of the list. In this connection it is emphasized that should the War Department now desire to reconsider the eligible list it would be difficult to get together the board of five permanent major generals which formulated the original list. A new board would in all likelihood have to be appointed, and the appointments made from the following six major generals who are now on duty within the continental limits of the United States: Generals Morrison, 4th Corps Area; Bullard, 2d Corps Area; Dickman and Harbord, 8th Corps Area; Summerall, 2d Corps Area; McAndrew, 3d Corps Area. Of the remaining permanent major generals, General Wood has been assigned to inspection of the Philippine Islands, General Liggett will go on the retired list this month, General Morton commands the Hawaiian Department, General March is Chief of Staff, General Kernan commands the Philippine Department. What action the War Department will take relative to appointments of general officers in the period until Congress convenes in extraordinary session, on April 11, is at present problematical. There is also no indication that the eligible list will be made public in the meantime, despite individual inquiry by members of Congress with the purpose of having the list published.

REGULATION OF SERVICE PARTICIPATION IN PARADES.

Brig. Gen. John W. Ruckman, U.S.A., commanding the 1st Coast Artillery District of Boston, and Rear Admiral Herbert O. Dunn, U.S.N., commanding the 1st Naval District of Boston, both issued orders forbidding organizations of their commands to parade in Boston March 17 in honor of St. Patrick's Day, with the so-called American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic. Despite numerous protests from politicians and others, both the War and Navy Departments fully supported the action of General Ruckman and Admiral Dunn. In a letter to Mr. Thomas M. Nolan, state secretary of the Massachusetts branch of the above mentioned association, in answer to his protest against the orders issued, Secretary of War Weeks said in part: "The rule of the War Department with reference to local parades is that the corps area commanders, who are familiar with conditions on the spot, have entire and final authority concerning the participation of United States troops in any parade. Obviously no parade should interfere with the proper performance of military duty, and he is best qualified to judge as to whether troops can be spared and of local conditions attending any celebration in which it is desired United States troops participate. The War Department makes no exception to this general rule and will not interfere with the judgment of General Ruckman in the case in question." The Navy Department took a similar view. In answer to a telegram couched in caustic language sent to President Harding by Mr. John F. Harrigan, president of the Massachusetts Council of the so-called American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, protesting against the action of General Ruckman and Admiral Dunn, Mr. Harding directed his secretary to reply that "Army and Navy commanders have authority to direct the forces under their command," stating further that "the Government raises no issue about the fitness of your celebration of Evacuation Day and the spirit of St. Patrick's Day is felt throughout our country, but the naval and military forces of the nation can have no part in any demonstration which may be construed as influencing the foreign relations of the Republic."

CORRESPONDENCE COURSE FOR Q.M.R.C. OFFICERS.

Plans to furnish a correspondence course of instruction to all Quartermaster Reserve Corps officers are being completed by Col. J. S. Chambers, in charge of the Personnel Section, Q.M.C. The course will not be compulsory but it is hoped to give every Reserve officer of the corps an opportunity to avail himself of the instruction. It has been decided to begin with 500 second lieutenants, allow them to complete the course, then take another class of 500 until all the officers of that grade are finished, and then take up the higher grades. The lessons will consist of basic methods of procedure and problems that all officers of the Q.M.C. must understand, no matter what special line of duty they are assigned to in the corps. Methods of property accountability will be included, covering purchases and procurement, contracts and agreements; laws effecting employment of civilian personnel, also financial accountability and responsibility and disbursement of Government funds. Where needed this will be followed by any course necessary for specialists in any particular line. It is expected to require about six months to complete the instruction. A circular is now being prepared by the Quartermaster Corps Personnel Section which will give in detail how to make application for the course and other necessary preliminary information, which will be sent to all second lieutenants in the Q.M.R.C.

RESERVE COMMISSIONS FOR QUALIFIED NON-COMES.

In order to avoid the ill effects of a sudden loss of warrant officers and noncommissioned officers of organizations of the Regular Army and of the National Guard in an emergency the War Department has deemed it advisable that so far as practicable those qualified be appointed in the Officers' Reserve Corps in time of peace. It is anticipated that such appointments will have a beneficial effect on the efficiency and morale of the enlisted personnel. It is pointed out to corps area and department commanders and the commander of the American Forces in Germany that one method by which warrant officers and enlisted men may qualify for appointment as Reserve officers is by attendance at training camps conducted under the provision of Sec. 47d, act of June 4, 1920. In order to afford ample opportunity to all warrant officers and non-commissioned officers to qualify for appointment an alternative method is provided, whereby candidates for appointment shall receive practical training and instruction in the duties of officers while serving with their organizations. At expiration of training they will be examined to determine their fitness for appointment as Reserve officers. Supervision of the instruction and the conduct of examination will be in charge of corps area and department commanders, the scope of the examination to be prescribed by the War Department. These examinations will be largely practical and in those subjects essential to qualification for appointment as junior officers in the various branches of the Service, and will be of such scope as to insure appointment of only qualified candidates. In view of the necessity for increasing the number of Reserve officers and in order that such appointments may follow promptly upon publication of regulations governing training and examination, it is desired that this opportunity be made known to warrant officers and non-commissioned officers of the Regular Army and the National Guard, and that they be permitted at once to file applications with their immediate organization commanders; and that the latter proceed with the instruction of such applicants in the duties of junior officers of the branch in which appointment is desired. In the National Guard such instruction is to be supervised by the inspector-instructors.

THE NEW ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF WAR.

Col. J. Mayhew Wainwright, Inspector General's Department, N.Y.N.G., who was appointed Assistant Secretary of War by President Harding and confirmed by the Senate on March 14, is a lawyer by profession, has a wide and distinguished record of military service, and his appointment is an excellent one. Colonel Wainwright during the World War served in France and Belgium as inspector of the 27th Division, U.S.A., and was awarded the D.S.M. for exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous services. The citation says: "As division inspector and more especially as an acting General Staff officer of the 27th Division in the Dickebusch sector in Belgium and the Ypres-Lys offensive, and the battle of the La Selle River, in France, by his energy, efficient coordination of details and persistent application to his task, he regulated all movements of the division involving the evacuation of wounded, the relief of units of the line, the supplying of rations and ammunition, and the control of communications with such marked success as incurred a minimum of loss in each operation." Colonel Wainwright first joined the military as a second lieutenant in the 12th Infantry, N.Y.N.G., March 29, 1889, and rose to the rank of lieutenant colonel. He served in the Buffalo riots and the Spanish-American War with the organization, and on the Texas border and overseas with the 27th Division. During his National Guard service he was frequently detailed to important special duty in addition to his routine duties. He was also a member of the state legislature and is known as an energetic, competent and popular officer. He was born in New York, Dec. 10, 1864, the son of John Howard Wainwright. His uncle, Comdr. J. N. Wainwright, U.S.N., was killed in action while in command of the Harriet Lane at Galveston, Texas, in January, 1863; and his cousin, Master J. M. Wainwright, U.S.N., was killed in action with Mexican pirates in 1870. Colonel Wainwright, whose home is at Rye, N.Y., is a graduate of Columbia College, School of Political Science, 1884, and of the Columbia Law School, 1888. He was president of the Westchester County Bar Association in 1904-1906. He speaks French fluently.

NO PRESENT CHANGE IN WAR DEPARTMENT CHIEFS.

"It is futile to make changes in the bureau chiefs and their assistants just for the purpose of making them because there has been a change of administration," said Secretary of War Weeks on March 16 in answer to a question as to whether the rumored "clearing out" of the War Department had any basis in fact. The Secretary said that he would not be the cause of changes in the War Department for some time to come, at least not until he should be fully informed as to the situation, and he added that then any changes which might occur would be on the basis of efficiency and not for political or personal reasons. Since assuming office Secretary Weeks has indicated that he was giving serious consideration to all matters of administration of the War Department and that his policy for the present would not be swerved into anything approaching haste. Quite naturally there has been a general expectation of more or less sudden changes in the personnel on duty in Washington in connection with Army administration, which reached the stage of definite rumors that were finally brought to the attention of the Secretary. His stand should have the effect of stilling the reports current in Army circles. The interrogation most in evidence, of course is, "Who is to be the new Chief of Staff?" Judging from the Secretary's attitude, the answer to that question will not be forthcoming for a considerable period of time, and perhaps not until well along into the session of the 67th Congress will an appointment of a new Chief of Staff become an actuality. The Secretary, at least, is seemingly content that his immediate military adviser, Major Gen. Peyton C. March, meets his every requirement from a basis of efficiency.

RETIREMENTS.

Major Alexander M. Watson, U.S.M.C., was on March 11, 1921, placed on the retired list on account of disability incurred in line of duty. He was in command of marine barracks at the U.S. Naval Academy at the time of his retirement. He was born in Michigan Jan. 4, 1883, and was appointed to the Marine Corps April 2, 1904. He had performed some four years of sea duty and some five years of shore duty.

First Lieut. Harry Holmes, Dental Corps, U.S.A., was retired from active service March 10, 1921, with rank of captain to date from Oct. 5, 1920, for disability incident to the service. He was born in Georgia June 16, 1894, and entered the Regular Army May 7, 1918, having previously been a member of the O.R.C. He was awarded the degree of D.D.S., Southern Dental College, in 1915. During the World War he served with the A.E.F.

First Lieut. Jesse P. Truax, Med. Corps, U.S.A., was retired on March 10, 1921, with rank of captain to date from June 4, 1920, for disability incident to the service. He was born in Wisconsin April 26, 1872, and was appointed in the Regular Army Nov. 15, 1918, having previously been a member of the O.R.C. He was awarded the degree of M.D., Omaha Medical College, in 1897. During the World War he served in Russia.

First Lieut. R. Murray, Med. Corps, U.S.A., was retired on March 10, 1921, with rank of captain to date from July 22, 1920, for disability incident to the service. He has been under treatment in the Walter Reed General Hospital, and was appointed in the Regular Army Dec. 12, 1917, and served with the A.E.F. Captain Murray had previously served in the O.R.C. and held the degree of M.D., Columbia College. He was born in New York Aug. 29, 1890.

First Lieut. Henry F. Martin, Inf., U.S.A., was retired from active service March 9, 1921, for disability caused by gunshot wound received in action. He was born in Pennsylvania March 6, 1892, and was first appointed in the Regular Army Oct. 26, 1917, as a second lieutenant, 47th Infantry. He served with the A.E.F. during the World War.

First Sergt. Marvin Lindley Smith, Co. F, 21st Inf., after thirty years' active service was placed upon the retired list March 2, 1921. First Sergeant Smith first enlisted July 18, 1898, and since that date has served continuously in the following organizations: 203d New York Volunteers, 8th, 15th and 21st Infantry. He has eight discharges, all with character "excellent." Most of his service has been with the 8th Infantry, he having served over sixteen years with that regiment. During the war with Spain, 1st Sergeant Smith served in Cuba. He served in three tours in the Philippines, being under General Pershing, Major Generals Wood, McArthur, Bell, Chaffee, Wheaton, Funston, Mills and Sumner. He participated in numerous engagements, of which the principal ones were at Nagcarlan in Southern Luzon in 1901, and the expedition against the Pulajanes on the Island of Leyte, 1906. "The entire service of 1st Sergeant Smith," says the post commander of Fort Liscum, Nebr., in G.O. 1 of March 2, "has been honorable and faithful. He was never absent without leave and was granted only two furloughs during his entire service. He has gained the respect and esteem of all with whom he has served. His record is one any soldier may be proud of, and the younger men who are entering the Service would do well to emulate the record which 1st Sergeant Smith has left to posterity. In announcing 1st Sergeant Smith's retirement, the post commander wishes him Godspeed and extends the wishes of the entire command for a long, happy and prosperous life."

RECENT DEATHS.

Brig. Gen. Francis H. French, U.S.A., retired, whose death at Washington, D.C., on March 10, 1921, after a brief illness we briefly noted in our issue of March 12, page 775, is survived by a widow, who was formerly Miss Maude Wright, of Detroit, and a daughter, Miss Catherine French. His first service after graduating from the U.S.M.A., in 1879, was with the 19th Infantry on frontier duty at Fort Lyon, Colo., and later at Fort Garland, Colo., where he was engaged in scouting work incident to hostile Indians. He was subsequently on duty at various posts in Texas to April, 1890, and during 1882-4 he was in command of Indian scouts at Camp Myers Spring, Texas. He was on leave in Europe during a part of 1896-7, and he served in 1898 at Ponce, Porto Rico, with the 19th Infantry, going with it to the Philippines in July, 1899, and participated in a number of engagements there. He also served several other tours of duty in the Philippines. He served a detail as Inspector General, and among other duties was, while lieutenant colonel of the 12th Infantry, in command at Fort Niagara, N.Y., in 1906. He was also Inspector General of the Philippine Division. General French served in Hawaii, on the Texas border. He was president of the Machine Gun Board which selected the Browning Gun. He was appointed a brigadier general in 1916 and during the World War was made a temporary major general. He served on the General Staff and was a graduate of the Army War College. Though given the rank of major general in the National Army, August, 1917, and the command of Camp Jackson, a critical operation at the Walter Reed Hospital prevented him from going to France, except as an observer in December following with other general officers. Upon his return he commanded Camp Wheeler, Macon, Ga., and later Camp Jackson, S.C. After the armistice he was sent to Manila to command the Philippine Department, and on Jan. 19, 1920, he was retired from active service upon his own request.

In our issue of March 12, 1921, page 774, we noted the death of Rear Admiral James Johnson Kane, chaplain, U.S.N., retired, at the naval hospital, Philadelphia, Pa., March 9. A correspondent sends us the following additional information: Rear Admiral Kane was born in Canada, Oct. 18, 1837, the eldest son of Capt. Clement Kane, formerly Royal navy, and nephew of the late Comdr. Colin Campbell Abercrombie Kane, Royal navy. He entered the Navy first by original appointment as mate Aug. 8, 1861, was promoted ensign Oct. 28, 1862, and was honorably discharged August, 1865. He graduated in theology from Lewisburg College, Pa., now Bucknell, in 1867, commissioned chaplain June, 1868, and completed two full terms in the law department of Harvard, 1869 and 1870. Rear Admiral Kane was at various periods chaplain pro tem of the U.S. Senate, and was retired for disability incident to the service October, 1890, and was promoted to rear admiral in June, 1906. During the Civil War he served under both Admirals Farragut and Porter and took part in the two battles of Fort Fisher, December, 1864, and January, 1865, as an ensign in command of a division of guns on the Pon-tosue. The funeral took place in Arlington Cemetery March 12 with military honors rendered by a detachment of seaman infantry and a naval band and were impressive. Chaplains Frazier and Riddle, U.S.N., and former Chaplain George Williamson Smith, U.S.N., ex-president of Trinity College, Hartford, and now of St. John's Episcopal Church, Washington, officiated. Among the immediate members of Admiral Kane's family were his brother, Lieut. Col. A. J. Gordon Kane, N.G., retired, late ensign, U.S.N., Civil War, and a number of officers of the Navy, Coast Guard, Public Health Service, Loyal Legion, G.A.R., and the National Masonic Lodge of Washington. The New York Sun of March 12 in an editorial article paid him a graceful tribute stating Admiral Kane was a sailor, preacher, lawyer and author, a remarkable combination of the student and the man of action.

Col. S. J. Bayard Schindel, Inf., U.S.A., was found dead in his bed at his home in the Highland Apartments, Washington, D.C., on the morning of March 11, 1921. He retired the previous evening apparently in the best of health and his death is attributed to heart disease. Colonel Schindel leaves a widow and a thirteen-year-old son. He was born in New Jersey, June 3, 1871, and was a graduate of the U.S.M.A., class of 1893, when he was assigned to the Artillery. During the World War he held the temporary rank of brigadier general. Colonel Schindel was transferred to the Infantry in 1895. His first service after graduation was at posts in Georgia and Florida. As an officer of the 6th Infantry he served with it in the campaign in Cuba in 1898 and was in the battle of San Juan, July 1-3. Among other subsequent stations and duties he served in Philippine campaigns and was in the engagement of Bud Dajo in 1906. He served several tours of duty in the Philippines. Colonel Schindel attended the Swiss maneuvers in 1907, served at the Army War College as an instructor, 1912-17, and during this period sailed Aug. 5, 1914, with the Assistant Secretary of War for duty in Europe, remaining at Christiania and St. Petersburg on relief work to October of that year. He rejoined the War College Oct. 10, 1914; was on duty with the 12th Provisional Motor Train to Oct. 10, 1916; was with the 19th Infantry at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, to August, 1917; at Camp Pike, Ark., to Aug. 31, 1918; at Camp Meade, Md., with 22d Infantry Brigade and 21st Infantry Brigade to February, 1919; commanding Camp Meade to March 15, 1919; duty in War Plans Division, office Chief of Staff, to August, 1919; student General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, Kas., to July 3, 1920; and Student General Staff School, Washington, D.C., since Aug. 19, 1920. His remains were buried with military honors at Arlington, March 11, service being previously held in St. Margaret's Church. In announcing the death of Colonel Schindel in G.O. 4, 1921, General Staff College, Col. Alfred T. Smith, commanding, after giving the military record of the deceased, says: "Colonel Schindel was the son of an Army officer, was born and brought up in the Service which he loved and to which he has given his whole life. He was an officer who had during his career been selected for many important details on account of his talent and broad professional attainments. In his death the Army has lost an officer of conspicuous ability and devotion to duty, one who, already prominent in his profession, had given promise of a continuance of the successes he had already earned. His widow and one son survive him. The heartfelt sympathy of his comrades of the General Staff College is extended to the members of his family in their bereavement."

Col. Robert C. Williams, Cav., U.S.A., on duty as inspector-instructor with Texas National Guard Cavalry, died March 15, 1921, at Joseph's Infirmary, Houston, Texas, of a complication of diseases believed to have resulted from an operation for appendicitis. The body was sent to Washington for interment in Arlington National Cemetery with military honors. Colonel Williams, who had been on duty with the Texas National Guard since 1918, was born in Ohio Feb. 5, 1862, and was graduated from the U.S.M.A., class of 1886, when he was assigned to the 15th Infantry. He later served with the 2d and 15th Infantry, and was retired in 1890 for disability in the line of duty. He was restored to the active list Oct. 2, 1915, by special act of Congress with rank of lieutenant colonel. He was promoted colonel in October, 1917. He was severely injured at Fort Huachuca, Ariz., in 1898, while in command of Troop 1, 7th Cav. His widow, Grace Yoe Williams, resides at 4445 Rusk avenue, Houston.

He was born in New Hampshire, Jan. 26, 1849, and was appointed a midshipman at the U.S. Naval Academy in 1865, being graduated in 1869. He was retired with the rank of commander June 30, 1900, on his own application and had performed twenty-one years and five months' sea service and fifteen years' shore duty.

James Calhoun Drake, ex-lieutenant, U.S.N., died at Los Angeles, Calif., on March 13, 1921. He was a member of the class of 1880, U.S. Naval Academy, and resigned from the Navy in 1895. He was one of the incorporators and organizers of the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank and served as its president for about twenty years. "No one was more highly respected and trusted in the community," writes a correspondent, R.H. M., "than Mr. Drake, who took upon himself the financial troubles of the lowest as well as the highest, and who was a leader in prominent matters of the community. His previous naval career served him in good stead in civil life as he was an adviser in technical matters as well as in business. He was also a director of the First National Bank of Los Angeles as well as many prominent corporations in Southern California. He is mourned by many on account of never failing courtesy, his kindness of heart and his generosity. #### ARMY UNIFORM REGULATIONS.

New Pamphlet Cannot be Issued Until After June 30.

The new Uniform Regulations and Specifications which were to have been published this spring cannot be issued in printed form until after the end of the fiscal year 1921, owing to shortage of funds. Following are the principal changes in the uniform regulations which will be in force from March 11:

Army field clerks and clerks, Q.M.C., will wear the same uniforms as warrant officers, with change in the insignia on collar and service cap. The cap insignia is two crossed pens; collar insignia as in Uniform Specifications, 1917.

Retired officers will wear no insignia on collar except the "U.S." even when on active duty.

Enlisted men will not be permitted to wear an article of uniform of a type different from that which is issued to the organization to which they belong. (This replaces Par. 52, Uniform Regulations, 1917.)

Officers, warrant officers and enlisted men will wear the uniform at all times, except when engaged in athletic sports and games. (This replaces Par. 55, Uniform Regulations, 1917.)

The old Cavalry belt of russet leather, 1 1/4 inches wide, with bronze center bar buckle, will be worn by all officers when on duty under arms; belt will not be worn on other occasions. In the field Infantry officers will be issued a pistol belt. No other belts are authorized for officers.

Badges of enameled metal, not exceeding 1/4 inch largest dimension, of the shoulder insignia worn during the World War, may be worn. (This is an addition to Subpar. (c) (2) of Par. 12, Uniform Regulations, 1917, as amended by Changes No. 10.)

Either gauntlets or riding gloves may be worn by officers when mounted.

Chevrons of non-commissioned officers and first-class privates will be worn on both sleeves.

All chevrons and other similar sleeve insignia of enlisted men to indicate grade or duty are abolished except the following: Those enumerated in Cir. No. 803, W.D., 1920; for these rated positions in the Coast Artillery (Par. 72, Uniform Specifications, 1917, Changes No. 5), casemate electrician, observers, 1st and 2d class, plotters, coxswain, chief planter, chief loader, gun commander and gun pointer. For 1st and 2d class gunner, expert 1st class gunner, and for excellence in Coast Artillery target practice (Par. 74, Uniform Specifications, 1917, as amended). For mechanics and enlisted aviators, Air Service (Par. 101, Uniform Specifications, 1917, Changes No. 6).

The new chevrons for non-commissioned officers and privates 1st class will not be issued until supply of old chevrons is exhausted. The latter will be modified locally when necessary, all devices showing arm of the service or particular duty being cut out; thus a wreath with a star will be used for master sergeant, a wreath without star for a technical sergeant. The chevrons described in Par. 73, Uniform Specifications, 1917, as amended, will be issued to privates 1st class until exhausted. Cir. No. 408, W.D., 1920, in reference to service stripes, is amended by inserting "in the Army, Navy or Marine Corps," after the expression "Federal service as enlisted men," in line 3 of Par. 1.

For collar insignia, Indian Scouts will wear two crossed arrows, points up; all others on the Detached Enlisted Men's List will wear the coat of arms of the United States within the raised rim of the button. The insignia formerly prescribed for the following are abolished: Corps of Interpreters, Machine Gun battalions of Infantry, Corps of Intelligence Police, Headquarters of Brigades and higher units, Headquarters of Trains and Ammunition Trains, General Recruiting Service, Dis-plinary Barracks Guards, Service Schools and U.S. Military Academy detachments, Trench Mortar organizations, General Headquarters, Motor Transport Corps, U.S. Guards, Provost Marshal General's Department.

Where applicable the existing stock on hand will be issued until exhausted. For Howitzer companies the letters "H2" will be on the left buttons; the letter "S" for Service companies. For Machine Gun companies the ordinary insignia with letter of the company will be worn.

For officers and men in Tank units the insignia will be the Infantry crossed rifles with a circular raised center on which the letter "T" is imposed. For warrant officers an eagle standing upon a bundle of arrows, all inclosed in a wreath.

Hat Cords—For warrant officers and field clerks, the cord to be of silver and black silk intermixed. Acorns and keeper of black silk. For enlisted men, to be of the color prescribed for the branch of the Service. When two colors are given the cord will be in the first color, acorns and keeper in the color of the piping. For men on the Detached Enlisted Men's List, green; for men in Tank units, gray; for men in Cavalry machine-gun squad, the acorns and keeper scarlet. Hat cords of the old pattern will be issued until supply is exhausted.

White uniforms will not be required in the tropics for warrant officers, but they may be worn if warrant officer so desires.

SOCIETY OF QUARTERMASTER OFFICERS.

In case another national emergency should suddenly arise the Quartermaster Corps of the Army does not propose to be caught unprepared, so far as its relations with the industry of the country are concerned. An innovation is now furnished by the Society of Quartermaster Officers, with national headquarters in Washington, the latest military organization to get together, having for its primary object the national defense. It will work for industrial preparedness by promoting affiliation between the Army and the industry of the United States. Major Gen. H. L. Rogers, Quartermaster General of the Army, is president of the society. Its membership includes not only some of the best known Army officers, but such captains of industry in civil life as Elbert H. Gary, Frank A. Vanderbilt, Thomas A. Edison, Charles M. Schwab, Bernard M. Baruch, John Hays Hammond, August Belmont, Daniel Guggenheim, Charles G. Dawes, Julius Rosenwald, P. A. S. Franklin, Julius Kruttschnitt, S. M. Vauclain, Roy D. Chapin, C. H. Markham and Daniel Willard. All of them were connected with the industrial activities of the Government in the war. "It has been a well known fact," said General Rogers, in making public this list of names on March 16, "that due to lack of proper teamwork between the Army and the business of the country the supply departments at the beginning of the war encountered all manner of obstacles and delays in their work. And one of the lessons of the war is that a big modern war cannot be successfully fought without the co-operation of the business and commerce of the country. To help the nation profit from this lesson is the basic reason for the Society of Quartermaster Officers." Those eligible to membership include quartermasters of the Army, the Reserve Corps and the National Guard, and emergency Quartermaster officers during the war. Any business man is also eligible who has efficiently performed important work in affiliation with the Quartermaster Corps and any person who has efficiently furnished Quartermaster supplies to the Government and whose relations with the Quartermaster Corps have indicated a spirit of co-operation, or any officer, member or employee of any firm meeting these requirements, which includes all firms that received citations from the War Department for work in connection with the Quartermaster Corps during the war. The new society boasts an enthusiastic membership already and a general invitation to business men and manufacturers was sent out on March 16.

WOMAN'S ARMY AND NAVY LEAGUE BALL.

The welfare work of the Woman's Army and Navy League for the benefit of which the annual ball is to be given on March 30, at the New Willard Hotel at Washington, D.C., consists of looking after the comfort and needs of our enlisted men of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps. The work is carried on principally in conjunction with the chaplains. The society is composed principally of wives of officers, together with a number of prominent civilians especially interested in patriotic work. It furnishes recreation in the shape of story, song and hymn books, portable organs for distant posts, and occasionally, on request of the chaplain the league has been able to furnish a small phonograph which has given much joy to the men in their leisure hours, especially on board ship. During the World War this work was taken over by the Red Cross, but now that all welfare organizations have settled down to their customary peace routine chaplains are again sending their requests to the league. The society also looks after the families of the men when in need. The Soldiers, Sailors and Marines' Club, located at 217 C street, N.W., is sustained by the Woman's Army and Navy League. Here any enlisted man, when in the city and off duty, can secure a night's lodging and bath with the privileges of the library and reading rooms with its daily papers, magazines and games, or a comfortable fireside seat, where he is always sheltered from the temptations of the street. A marine, ill and dying at a distant post, directed his chaplain to send his coming salary to the league for the benefit of the club house, in order that he might do a little toward helping some other soldier to enjoy its benefits, since the club had been a refuge for him on more than one occasion. The temptations of the city streets for our enlisted men off duty can be understood by all. Funds are much needed for this work and it is hoped that not only those connected with the Service but citizens generally will take an active interest in the coming benefit ball of the league, to take place on March 30. Miss Emma Nourse, who has been the efficient secretary of the league for more than ten years, is chairman of the invitation committee. Mrs. Albert Mills has charge of the sale of boxes and Mrs. Jackson, wife of Rear Admiral Richard H. Jackson, is treasurer for the ball. Mrs. Emerson H. Liscum is president of the league.

ANNUAL REUNION OF THE 1ST DIVISION.

More than two hundred present and former officers of the 1st Division met at the Hotel Commodore, New York city, on March 12, for their second annual reunion and banquet. Several sub-organizations of the division established P.C.'s in the hotel, where former officers of the various regiments assembled before dinner and exchanged stories of their overseas experiences. Among these were the rooms of the 1st Engineers and the 7th Field Artillery. The tables in the banquet room were arranged by organizations, each former officer sitting with a comrade of the present organization. Notable among those at the speaker's table were Major Gen. Robert L. Bullard, U.S.A., commander of the 2d Corps Area; Major Gen. Charles P. Summerall, U.S.A., commanding 1st Division; Major George C. Marshall, jr., U.S.A., aid to Gen. John J. Pershing, U.S.A.; Col. Francis C. Marshall, U.S.A.; Assistant Secretary of the Navy Theodore Roosevelt; Mr. Shipley Thomas, formerly a captain in the 1st Division; and Mr. Shepard, also a captain in the division overseas, and who is president of the New York Society of the 1st Division. A message from General Pershing was delivered by Major Marshall, who, repeating the words of the A.E.F. commander, said that no words of man could adequately describe his feelings for the old 1st Division. General Summerall, in an address, praised the efforts made by members of the division to uphold and further build up the record of this famous organization. He invited all former officers of the division to visit Camp Dix, where its headquarters are established, and see for themselves the progress made by the enlisted personnel.

"AMERICANS ALL" SQUAD AT NATIONAL CONGRESS.

Delegates from all over the country from numerous organizations doing Americanization work met in a national congress at the New Willard Hotel, Washington, D.C., March 15. Major Bernard Lentz, Inf., U.S.A., who has been instrumental in originating and promoting the system of educating illiterates in the Army, introduced the "Americans All" squad from Camp Dix, N.J., under Capt. Theron G. Methven, with the remark: "What you will see here to-day in the performance of the 'Americans All' squad is the Army's definition of Americanization." Every one present was deeply impressed as the men demonstrated and told in English how they had been transformed by the Army. As each related the story of his struggles under the handicap of illiteracy, how by accident he found the Army and took advantage of its educational facilities which soon enabled him to read, write and speak the English language and learn of America, its laws and institutions, and as he expressed his unbounded gratitude and appreciation with his pledge of undivided allegiance to his country's flag, the audience was moved to tears of sympathy which gave way to loud applause when the story was ended. Many delegates extended congratulations to Major Lentz and Captain Methven with words of praise and encouragement. The representative of the W.C.T.U., which organization is active in Americanization endeavors, stated that she was anxious to have the members of her society understand what is being done in the Army and that effort would be made to secure such a squad for their next national convention which will be held next summer in San Francisco.

ASSOCIATION OF GRADUATES, U.S.M.A., ANNUAL REPORT.

The Association of Graduates of the U.S. Military Academy has recently issued its annual report for 1920, an interesting and attractive book of 158 pages. This volume resembles those of preceding years in general appearance and arrangement, but is enlivened with fourteen full-page halftone photographs of subjects and incidents of general interest at West Point during the period covered. It contains sketches of the lives and service of fifty-three deceased graduates of the academy, each sketch, with one exception, being accompanied by a halftone portrait. The volume was produced by Messrs. Seemann and Peters at Saginaw, Mich., who are to be congratulated on the neatness and general excellence of the work. In accordance with the usual custom, one copy has been mailed to each member of the association, and extra copies have been sent to the immediate relatives of deceased officers for whom sketches appear in this volume. As the association now numbers over 2,200 members, widely scattered throughout the Service and in civil life, the task of preparing an up-to-date mailing list was a difficult one. The secretary of the association, Lieut. Col. R. G. Alexander, U.S.A., regrets that some members will necessarily fail to receive their copies due to incorrect addresses and that the limited edition will not permit of replacements.

THE NATIONAL MATCHES, 1921.

Full instructions for the conduct of the National Matches for 1921 have been issued by the War Department. These embody the rules and regulations prepared by the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice at a meeting on Jan. 13 last, which were approved by the Secretary of War. As we have already noted the matches will be held at Camp Perry, Ohio, commencing Wednesday, Aug. 24. They will be shot in the following order: National individual rifle match, national individual pistol match, national pistol team match for teams of five fliers, national rifle team match for teams of ten fliers and national intercollegiate rifle team match for teams of six fliers. Aug. 22 and Aug. 23 have been set aside for final preliminary team practice. The matches of the National Rifle Association of America will precede the National Matches.

RECEIPTED SHIPPING TICKET FOR PROPERTY, N.G.

Brig. Gen. J. McI. Carter, Chief of the Militia Bureau, War Department, desires that National Guard organization commanders and property disbursing officers arrange so that proper receipts for Federal property received in the States be returned to the issuing officer. Adjutants general of the states were requested on April 27, 1920, to issue necessary instructions which would insure the issuing officer a receipted copy of shipping ticket for property received, but numerous complaints, it is stated, are being received by the Militia Bureau from Federal supply officers that they are unable to obtain such receipted shipping tickets. Compliance with this regulation is very important because a supply bureau or department cannot obtain reimbursement for the stores shipped unless a receipted copy of the shipping ticket can be shown.

Rear Admiral W. S. Benson, U.S.N., retired, was directed by President Harding on March 11 to continue to act as chairman of the U.S. Shipping Board until a new board is appointed. Until President Harding nominates a new board Admiral Benson has been given authority to function as the complete board.

Capt. Frederick L. Oliver, U.S.N., assumed command of Destroyer Squadron 10, Pacific Fleet, with U.S.S. Melville as flagship, March 10, 1921.

Comdr. John Sidney McCain, U.S.N., in charge of the Register office, Bureau of Navigation, has been ordered to sea. He has been relieved by Comdr. John T. G. Stapler, who has been in charge of the Navy recruiting station at Washington. Commander McCain has been in charge of matters of legislation relative to personnel during his duty in the Register office, and he will continue in this activity, it is understood, for some time to come.

Lieut. (T) Lon H. Robb (j.g.), U.S.N., who escaped from his guard aboard the receiving ship at Bay Ridge, N.Y., on Feb. 26 while in military arrest and undergoing court-martial for alleged embezzlement, has been captured and placed in arrest while aboard the steamer Cambrai, bound for Antwerp. He will be turned over to the commandant at Bay Ridge. His capture was due to a wireless sent the Cambrai from Hoboken on the New York Naval Intelligence Bureau, which received word from a stevedore who had recognized Lieutenant Robb while boarding the Cambrai.

Resignations of Navy Officers.

The resignations of the following officers of the Navy were accepted by Secretary Denby in the week of March 10-17: Lieut. E. B. Caldwell, line, and Lieuts W. E. Stone and E. M. Hudson, Med. Corps, of the permanent Navy; Lieuts R. H. Donnell and J. A. Curzon, Ensigns F. B. Crutcher, G. H. Trubenback and H. R. Scott, temporary officers.

Class of 1917, U.S. Naval Academy.

The members of the 1917 class of the Naval Academy, now temporary lieutenants, are eligible for promotion to permanent lieutenants from July 1, 1920, but they must qualify by examination. Most of the members of this class have been examined, have qualified, and have been commissioned in the permanent grade of lieutenant.

Present Law as to Sea Service.

Many Navy officers serving temporarily in grades above lieutenant commander in the line are under the impression that they must have completed two years' service in the grade next below in order to be eligible for selection for permanent promotion to the grade in which they are serving temporarily. This impression is probably due to unfamiliarity with a provision in the Naval Appropriation Act of June 4, 1920, which states: "until June 30, 1923, 'officers of the permanent Navy' have served satisfactorily during the war with the German government in a temporary grade or rank shall be eligible under the provisions of the existing law for selection for promotion or for promotion to the same permanent grade or rank without regard to statutory requirements other than age and professional and physical examination." Under this provision the statutes which are waived are those in the act of Aug. 29, 1916, which require that an officer shall have served a total of four years in the next lower grade and that two years of this period shall have been sea service.

Admiral Gleaves Addresses Tennessee Legislators.

Rear Admiral Albert Gleaves, U.S.N., spoke before the House of Representatives of Tennessee at Nashville on March 7, the members of the State Senate also taking a recess to hear his remarks. Admiral Gleaves in the course of his remarks said that it is unthinkable that Japan would ever declare war on us. He said Mr. Harding had said in his inaugural address that this country would never give any nation cause to declare war on us. He thought the leaders in Japan wanted peace; that they particularly wanted peace with the United States. In reference to the "naval holiday," he said he hardly thought any nation could have a naval holiday until other nations intimately concerned also had such holiday. Admiral Gleaves told the members of his "last cruise," and he said of the forty-eight years he had been in service sixty-seven per cent. of that time had been on sea. He told of the visit to Vladivostok in January and said the only duty of the Allied forces there was to prevent any fighting or looting in the streets of the city. There was no trouble until April, he said, when the Japanese set off some "fireworks," but that he has since observed in the papers that the Japanese had agreed to evacuate Siberia. He was cheered at the conclusion of his address and upon motion of Speaker Todd, of the House, the joint convention expressed its thanks for the honor of his presence and for the presence of his commander-in-chief, Mrs. Gleaves.

Appointment of Navy Paymaster General.

A young officer of the Supply Corps of the Navy writes that he would like to add one more word in favor of the appointment of Capt. John S. Carpenter as the next Paymaster General of the Navy. While various cogent reasons have appeared why Captain Carpenter should be appointed, he writes, there has not been sufficient emphasis "on the moral effect which that officer's designation would have on the entire Supply Corps of the Navy."

NOTES OF ARMY PERSONNEL.

Gen. John J. Pershing, U.S.A., was the guest of honor at an exhibition drill given by the Cavalry and Artillery detachments at Fort Myer, Va., on March 11. The General and other guests occupied a box in the riding hall with Col. William C. Rivers, U.S.A., commandant of the post, and Mrs. Rivers. Several spectacular features were introduced in the exhibition, says a dispatch to the New York Herald. One group of Cavalrymen made their entrance through a window, while later horses were jumped through a hoop of flames while pistols were fired beneath them at the same time. Mrs. Rivers greeted the guests and presented them to General Pershing. Among the Army, Navy and Marine Corps officers and their ladies present were Major Gen. and Mrs. Merritte W. Ireland, Major Gen. Commandant John A. Lejeune, Col. George Vidmer, Lieut. Comdr. James R. Barry, U.S.N., Lieut. Col. Harry N. Coates, Major and Mrs. John Milliken, Majors John G. Cuckemeyer and George S. Patton, Lieut. L. P. Warren, U.S.N., and General Collardet, of the French army, and Mme. Collardet.

Major Joseph O. Mauborgne, U.S.A., on duty in the office of the Chief Signal Officer, recently returned from Camp Benning, where he has been consulting with the Infantry Board on questions of communication between the Signal Corps and Infantry in the field. The question of what wireless set should be furnished an Infantry battalion was considered, as was also radio equipment in general as it pertains to the Infantry.

The Central Manufacturing District Magazine, published in Chicago, Ill., in its February issue has a complimentary article in regard to Capt. George F. Unsmacht, Q.M. Corps, U.S.A., on duty in the general supply department at that city. The article speaks of the regret felt among the officers and employees on duty with the Captain when orders came directing him to change station from Chicago to Washington. He was tendered a farewell reception by the employees of the depot, who presented him with a handsomely engraved watch, together with a beautiful basket of carnations, as a token of esteem. The Captain was very popular in Chicago and as an officer in the quartermaster depot there displayed great ability. Captain Unsmacht rose from a field clerk to the rank of temporary lieutenant colonel.

Army Relief Memorial Sections.

At the meeting of Branch No. 1, Army Relief Society, held in New York city on Feb. 24, 1921, the forming of several memorial sections was accomplished. They are: No. 16, to be continued "in memory of Mrs. Francis Bacon Jones," No. 20, "in memory of Col. George H. Sands, U.S.A." (Mrs. Sands). No. 25, "in memory of the enlisted men of the Armies of the United States" (Mrs. Roe). Section 23 was taken by Mrs. James S. Jones, Wheeling, W. Va. Section 36, Governors Island section.

Sales and Claims Consolidation.

Transfer of the sales branch of the Supply Division, War Department General Staff, and the War Department claims board, including the foreign claims section, from the Supply Division to the Assistant Secretary of War, was announced by the War Department on March 16. Brig. Gen. William M. Wright was also relieved as a member of the claims board. The Secretary of War also directed that Par. 2, Sec. 3, G.O. No. 51, W.D., 1920, be amended to read as follows: "The Assistant Secretary of War is hereby designated as the agent who shall exercise the powers conferred upon the U.S. Liquidation Commission by G.O. No. 24, W.D., 1919; and Par. 1, G.O. No. 40, W.D., 1919, G.O. No. 24, W.D., 1919, and Par. 1, G.O. No. 40, W.D., 1919, are amended accordingly."

Finance Students' Transportation Provided.

Until recently it appeared that it would not be possible to assemble the students desired to attend the class of the Finance School at Fort Washington, Md., which began March 14, due to the shortage of funds in the appropriation for transportation of the Army. The students, however, have been ordered to attend the school on schedule and this was made possible through an understanding between the War Department General Staff and the Chief of Finance, that whatever funds are required to defray the cost of travel in connection with assembling the members of the class and returning them to their proper stations will be secured from the item "General Appropriations" allotted to the Finance Department for the hire of civilian employees. Ninety-four students have reported for duty at the Finance School. The term will end April 24.

Civilians in Charge of Ordnance Districts.

Civilian employees in the Ordnance Department are to be placed in charge of the Ordnance districts of Baltimore, Boston, Bridgeport, Chicago, Detroit, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Rochester and Nitro, W. Va., the War Department directed on March 15. The Chief of Ordnance is authorized to direct these employees to perform duties with respect to personnel under their jurisdiction and the public property with which they are entrusted, such as relates to the execution of contracts incident to the settlement of claims and the salvage of surplus material; issue of travel orders for other civilian employees assigned to temporary duty within their districts; to certify supporting papers to vouchers for supply and to certify and approve vouchers for services and payrolls of civilian employees; to issue transportation required and to perform the general duties of a transportation officer, with the consent and approval of the Quartermaster General; perform the duties of surveying officer in submission of reports and of survey due to loss or damage of Ordnance property. These supervising employees are to be bonded to the satisfaction of the Chief of Ordnance and to the indemnification of the Government against loss.

ARMY ITEMS.

Movement of Troops Discontinued.

Because of the exhaustion of transportation funds, the authority of corps area commanders to direct travel of detachments of troops or individual enlisted men was suspended by the War Department on March 15, effective at once, and to remain in force until after June 30. Exceptions from the prohibition are cases of emergency, transfer of sick soldiers and attendants, sending guards to bring in soldiers absent without leave. In other necessary cases application for authority to direct travel may be submitted to the War Department. The order of course applies only to cases where travel is paid for from appropriations for travel of the Army.

Fire at Old Camp Merritt.

A fire at old Camp Merritt, N.J., near Dumont, took place on the night of March 13 and destroyed ninety-three buildings in the hospital section. These and all other buildings in the old camp were vacant and had ceased to be Government property, having been purchased by the Harris Brothers Construction Co. of Chicago. The total area of the camp is 770 acres. A total of 1,302 buildings, about half of which had now been torn down, were erected. Camp Merritt was one of the largest debarkation camps in the United States and had accommodation for 60,000 troops.

Coast Artillery Company Disbandment.

The Secretary of War has taken steps to preserve the entity of Coast Artillery companies, and has directed that nothing contained in Sec. VI, Par. 1, G.O. No. 98, W.D., July 26, 1917, shall be construed as authorizing the disbandment or termination of the existence of any Coast Artillery company unit without the approval of the Secretary of War.

For Preservation of 1st Division Battle Monuments.

Plans are being made by members of the 1st Division for the collection, by voluntary contribution, of funds for the purpose of preserving the various battle monuments of the division overseas. Four monuments in France have been completely endowed, in accordance with plans for their future upkeep. These are the markers at Cantigny, south of Soissons, near Somme, in the operation west of the Meuse, and on the hills south of Sedan.

Field Artillery for Hawaii.

The organization of the 1st, 20th and 83d Regiments of Field Artillery was authorized by the Secretary of War on March 17, in accordance with tables of organization approved Feb. 24, 1921, for duty in the Hawaiian Department. The regiments will not be equipped according to these tables of organization, but their equipment will conform to that prescribed in tables of equipment for division regiments of 77-mm. guns, with the exception of transportation, animals, motor and artillery material. For the present these regiments will retain the matériel with which they are now equipped, but this matériel will be claimed from time to time by the War Department in accordance with the progress of the experiment in motorization.

Sale of Motorized Vehicles.

The War Department has announced the sale, through the agency of the Q.M. Corps, of a number of motorized vehicles, trailers and bicycles, to be held at various posts. A sale will be held at Camp Jessup during the week beginning April 4; at Camp Normyle, the week of April 11; at El Paso, the week of April 18; at Jeffersonville, Ind., the week of April 25; and at Schenectady, N.Y., the week of May 1. These dates are tentative, however, and subject to revision.

6th Division Basketball.

The 6th Division, U.S.A., basketball series at Camp Grant, Ill., ended on Feb. 25 with the 3d Field Artillery in the lead. The 52d Infantry was a strong second. All regiments in the division participated in the series. Much credit is due to Lieut. Robert J. King, division athletic officer, for his successful management of this interesting competition.

Health of the Troops.

A report prepared by Col. W. P. Chamberlain, M.C., U.S.A., on current health statistics of the troops for the week ending March 4 shows that with a strength of command of 202,414 in the United States the admission rate for all causes was 1,016.29 and for disease only 919.44. The death rate for all causes was 6.94 and for disease only 5.14. The non-effective rate per 1,000 on the day of report was 44.63. Approximately 17.40 per 1,000 of this non-effective rate represents cases in general hospitals, about 2.34 per 1,000 being overseas cases undergoing reconstruction treatment. There was no report from the American Forces in Germany for the week ending March 4.

Test of New Cavalry Carbine.

The Cavalry Board at Fort Riley, Kas., is trying out a new experimental Cavalry carbine, which was made at the Springfield Armory especially for the test. It has a 20-inch barrel with a short stock and was made by shortening the barrel of a standard rifle from 24-inches. Certain other suggested changes were also made on recommendation of a member of the Cavalry Board. The tests are being made to determine the possibilities and shortcomings of such a weapon. There is no present intention of substituting this carbine or any similar weapon for the standard rifle now in use. The carbine is fitted with special sling swivels on its left side, in order that it may be carried slung across the Cavalryman's back in such a position that the bolt handle will not cause interference. It is fitted with a Lyman No. 48 sight modified to show graduations in yards instead of minutes. Each turn of the elevation screw equals five minutes. The knurled head on the top of the elevation screw is divided into five divisions, each of which is equivalent to one minute. One turn of the windage screw is equivalent to four minutes or approximately one point of windage. Both the windage and elevation screws click for each minute of adjustment. It has been found during the test that the shortening of the barrel reduces the muzzle velocity slightly, and it has increased noticeably the muzzle flash. The carbine is a well balanced arm and can be handled very easily. Its accuracy has been found excellent, but the short barrel makes the recoil heavier than that of the Service rifles. The report of the test has not yet been received at Washington, and until it has been received and considered any further action which may be taken relative to the matter cannot be forecast.

ARMY TRANSPORT SERVICE.

Assignment of Quarters on Transports.

An omission in changes No. 5, Special Regulations No. 71, Jan. 18, 1921, W.D., relative to precedence in the assignments of quarters of Army transports, where families of officers travel unaccompanied by the officer, who has preceded them, was supplied by direction of the Secretary of War on March 8. All concerned are notified that where the family of an officer is unable to accompany him on the transport on which he is traveling, it will be assigned first class accommodations, and if possible similar to those that would have been assigned were the officer present, provided such assignment can be effected without depriving officers traveling on the transport of the class of accommodations to which their rank entitles them. Among the families of officers on the same transport, other considerations being equal, assignment of accommodations will be made in the same order as if the officers were present. An officers' children not occupying the same stateroom as the parents, and sufficiently responsible to occupy separate staterooms at a distance therefrom, will be assigned suitable first class accommodations. These instructions apply equally to families embarking from United States ports who are joining officers on foreign stations.

GENERAL WOOD AT INFANTRY SCHOOL.

Demonstration of Attack Given in His Honor.

When Major Gen. Leonard Wood visited the Infantry School, Camp Benning, on Feb. 17 a demonstration was arranged in his honor which illustrated the attack of a war-strength battalion of Infantry supported by such auxiliaries as may be placed under the command of any Infantry battalion commander in action. The problem was fired with service ammunition and was realistic to a degree. General Wood showed great interest in the maneuver. He asked many questions concerning the detailed training of the scouts, squads, sections and platoons taking part and expressed himself as well satisfied with this exhibition of training methods as taught at the school. The demonstration was prepared by Major R. H. Kelley, Inf., one of the instructors in the tactical section of the Department of Military Art. The troops actually engaged consisted of one war-strength battalion of Infantry, a regimental howitzer company, a battalion of Field Artillery, a company of light tanks, a squadron of airplanes, a balloon company, and the battalion detachment from a regimental medical company. The enemy was represented by targets.

General Wood and his former aid, Captain Thomas, and Col. Gordon Johnston were accompanied by Brig. Gen. W. H. Gordon, Col. Paul B. Malone and other officials of the Infantry school. They observed the demonstration from a central ridge which commanded a view both of the approach and the attack. Major Kelley explained the details of the maneuver as the problem developed. General Wood showed special interest in the work of the scouts, noting particularly the method of advancing by bounds and use of cover. The zone of action of this battalion, which constituted part of a larger force, covered an area with a frontage of 500 yards and a depth of 1,400 yards. This is one of the smallest areas that may be controlled by an Infantry battalion commander in action. The demonstration was designed to permit students to picture the area for which a battalion commander is responsible in action and to emphasize the problems of communication and control. The fact that only service ammunition was used in rifles, machine guns and howitzer company artillery and chemical mortars made the exhibition exceedingly realistic. The strike of the bullets along the enemy position could be readily observed, the tracer ammunition was exceedingly effective and the overhead fire by machine guns and howitzer units was actually delivered. The demonstration was witnessed by about 1,000 people from Columbus, Atlanta and the surrounding country.

General Wood and his party were guests of Gen. and Mrs. Gordon during their stay at Camp Benning. Upon completion of the maneuvers General Wood and his party, Gen. and Mrs. Gordon and several officers and ladies were entertained at luncheon by Col. and Mrs. Malone. During the afternoon General Wood witnessed a demonstration of the methods employed by the Infantry School in physical training and all forms of personal combat with which he was very much pleased. He then made a tour of the reservation and was entertained at dinner that evening by the Kiwanis Club at Columbus. The General delivered a splendid address, arousing much enthusiasm from a large and appreciative audience. Addresses were also delivered by General Gordon, Colonel Malone and Major Halpin. On the following day General Wood observed in detail the progress of instruction, and in the afternoon the students were assembled in the camp theater, where he addressed them for more than an hour, expressing his approval of the methods employed, the aims, objects and mission of the school, and congratulating the students on the efficiency which they had displayed.

SENATE'S NAVY APPROPRIATION BILL ENDORSED.

After a session of the council of the Secretary of the Navy on March 16, which was devoted to a complete review of the requirements of the Navy for the fiscal year 1922, Secretary Denby announced that the Navy Department would submit to Congress a request that the appropriation bill as amended by the Senate Committee be adopted. This amended bill, the Secretary declared, was in exact accord with the general view of the situation as it existed now, and that the situation would not change in all likelihood by the time Congress convenes on April 11. The enlisted personnel at 120,000 was the hard and fast minimum required and this personnel should not be decreased, particularly in view of the purpose of keeping in commission fifteen battleships, and of the Navy's lack of trained men. The need of the increase for aviation is regarded as self-evident for the reason that the House bill made no appropriation for new aircraft. The Senate bill provides $3,125,750 for this purpose, and although this is a conservative amount taking into con-consideration the constant and rapid advances in aeronautics, it is felt that the Navy will be able to keep up with advancements in the air with this additional amount for new aircraft, and with the total of $18,729,000 for aviation. It is imperative, also, that the Navy make a start on the construction of the two airplane carriers, for which the Senate committee provided $15,000,000, and this project is endorsed. It was Secretary Denby's view that further hearings would be unnecessary and that the Navy Department recommendation of the amended bill would be favorably received by Congress.

NO CHANGES IN NAVY DEPARTMENT.

Changes in the bureau chiefs of the Navy Department will not be made by Secretary of the Navy Denby until his return to Washington from his visit to the fleet in Cuban waters, according to report of the first meeting of the Secretary's council on March 17. Mr. Denby assured the bureau chiefs present that the Navy Department personnel would continue to function as it was for some time to come and that he was not inclined toward making changes except as necessity demanded. Secretary Denby has stated that he would make no announcement as to naval policy or strategy until he is completely informed and can talk from a basis of accurate knowledge. The Secretary has impressed the commissioned personnel on duty in the Navy Department as a man possessing capabilities for making the Navy efficient and contented. He has expressed himself as for a "fighting Navy," a desire that has touched a most responsive chord in the hearts of the entire personnel.

ARMY SINGLE LIST FOR PROMOTION.

It is of great importance, aside from the general interest of the Service, that all sides of the question relative to the arrangement of the captains and lieutenants on the promotion list shall be discussed because of its certain effect upon the morale of the commissioned personnel of the Army. Naturally, considerable feeling has been aroused, some of it not well considered. We have endeavored to present all shades of opinion on the question, and to present the differences of opinion with a view to a respect for every opinion. But in all the discussion there is a most important matter which appears to have been forgotten, the preservation of the single list to the Army and of promotion by seniority. The danger of the existing controversy is that so much pressure will be exerted toward amending the Army Reorganization act of June 4, 1920, in relation to the single list feature, that it may result in ruining the promotion plan the Army has been working for for years. That danger should by all means be avoided, and any amendment of the section providing for the arrangement on the list of the captains and lieutenants should be so plainly and fairly worded that an adequate adjustment will be arrived at, an adjustment founded in a purpose to do complete justice to all concerned. As stated by Secretary of War Weeks, "no system of promotion is possible of attainment which will be satisfactory to every person concerned." But there is a basis for adjustment and for compromise which will satisfy the greater number.

The Army for more than ten years has been hoping for the adoption of the single list for promotion and by enactment of the Reorganization act of June 4, 1920, this system, which fully ninety per cent. of the Army favored as the most equitable that could be devised, became a fact. On March 14 the Senate finally confirmed the nominations which completed the promotions in accordance with the single list. On the same day the Secretary of War directed that an order be issued dissolving the board of officers appointed for the purpose of preparing the promotion list for officers of the Regular Army and Philippine Scouts. The work of consolidating the several parts into one complete single list was approved by the Secretary of War and on March 14 the list was transmitted to The Adjutant General of the Army, in whose office it will be preserved as the original document upon which future action relative to promotions will be based. The board of officers charged with the formation of the single list had been in session almost continuously since June 14, 1920, and to its members the Army is unquestionably indebted for the completion of what proved to be a herculean task.

The Army, having gained the single list for promotion in the face of a powerful influence for a system of promotion by selection, may be said to hold to the conviction that no system measures out the maximum amount of justice to officers of the Army to the same degree as does the single list system, coupled with advancement by seniority. Those officers, from Gen. John J. Pershing down to officers in the grade of captain, who advocated the single list before the military committees at the long hearings prior to the passing of the Army Reorganization bill, also deserve the generous thanks of the commissioned personnel of to-day and the officers who may come into the Army for many years hereafter for the valiant service they performed in so presenting the benefits to be derived in equity and justice to officers through the adoption of the system that Congress at last realized that in enacting the single list law it was granting the Army what it greatly desired. And on their own side the members of the Committees on Military Affairs and of Congress generally believed that the vexatious and ever-present problem of promotion in the Army would come as near as possible to a satisfactory solution by the adoption of the single list system whereby adjustment was made on a basis of practical equalization, and the whole commissioned personnel started off with approximate equality in all grades. From every direction, from every branch of the Service, came the plea for an equitable system, particularly one which would stop the seeking after advantage in advancement through special acts of Congress.

The net result is the single list for promotion of to-day, which the commissioned personnel as a whole desires shall be guarded against any heedless assault that might endanger the general principles of seniority promotion now that it has been established. Perfection in its final evolution cannot be claimed, to be sure, but in the making of the law and the list every possible contingency that could have been foreseen was presented and discussed. Questions as to the justice of the practical workings of the law in particular instances, or of its interpretation as affecting certain officers, such as that involved in the status of the captains and lieutenants which the proposed McKellar amendment is intended to correct, have arisen and may be expected to arise hereafter. But we believe that the general feeling of the Army is in favor of the principle of seniority promotion, and that the single list as now completed is fundamentally sound. If legislation is sought to correct what are believed to be injustices in individual instances or groups, it should not destroy the underlying principles of the present system. The single list in its operation, it is generally believed; will prove that it will stand four square with the views and opinions of the officers of the Army who have advocated seniority rather than selective promotion.

Promotion List Board Dissolved.

The promotion list board, which prepared the single list of the commissioned personnel of the Army, and which has been engaged in this duty since last June, was ordered dissolved on March 15 by direction of the Secretary of War. The board of officers appointed by the Secretary of War, which was charged with the preparation of the single list for promotion, was composed of Col. Walter H. Gordon, Inf.; Col. Frank M. Caldwell, Cav.; Col. John C. Gilmore, jr., C.A.C.; Col. William S. McNair, F.A.; Col. Charles Keller, C. of E.; Col. Winthrop S. Wood, Q.M.C., and Major Thomas M. Spaulding, C.A.C., of the War Department General Staff, who as a member of the personnel branch of the General Staff had made a special study of merging the former promotion lists into a single list. The special board of officers, composed of Brig. Gen. Henry Jervoy, Col. John I. Chamberlain and Col. Edward A. Kreger, which was appointed to consider certain features of the promotion list, also completed its work and was dissolved by the Secretary of War. It is understood this board passed upon the provisions of Sec. 24a, act of June 4, 1920, and the question whether they were correctly followed in the formation of the single list, and that it was unanimous in its view that the observance of the law had been just and impartial. The action of Secretary Weeks in submitting the list of nominations for confirmation was regarded as an expression of his approval of the findings of this board.

APPROPRIATION LEGISLATION REFORM.

Experience in Last Congress Shows This Is Necessary.

The method of handling Service legislation in the 66th Congress leaves an uncertainty as to whether the House Committees on Military and Naval Affairs should continue to function merely in legislative matters which affect the Army and Navy without power of recommending appropriations. Great dissatisfaction has been expressed by members of both committees with the manner in which the appropriating power has been applied, and there is a demand for some change for the better because, as the situation exists, the House Military and Naval Committees are practically reduced to impotence. Scores of bills of interest to the Army and Navy were introduced in the last Congress, read by the clerk according to the rules of the House, and then referred to the proper naval or military committee for further consideration. Hearings were held, many of the bills were found to be meritorious, some absolutely necessary. They were recommended to Congress for passage, placed on the calendar, and there died, because no power that could be brought to bear could bring them up for a vote in the House in time to reach the Senate, where they could be considered and passed before the end of the session.

The Military and Naval sub-committees of the House Appropriations Committee were also handicapped because they were not permitted to appropriate money for any project that was not specifically authorized by legislation. The rule affecting this phase of the situation reads: "No appropriation shall be reported in any general appropriation bill, or be in order as an amendment thereto, for any expenditure not previously authorized by law, unless in continuation of appropriations for such public works and objects as are already in progress. Nor shall any provision in any such bill or amendment thereto changing existing law be in order . . ." The Appropriation sub-committees, therefore, were hindered from recommending to Congress that any fund be allowed for unauthorized projects, no matter how much needed they might be, nor how much loss would accrue in failure to appropriate. For example, consider the Naval Appropriation bill which was crowded out of consideration at the last minute in the Senate: Beginning in January, Representative Patrick H. Kelley, chairman of the naval sub-committee of the House Committee on Appropriations, began hearings on the bill, requesting competent Navy officers to appear and state their needs for the coming fiscal year. There was much money requested for meritorious projects, but the committee was powerless to provide funds except for work already begun or authorized as specified in the rule. During the hearings Mr. Kelley went to the Committee on Naval Affairs, explained the situation and recommended that certain legislation be passed so that his sub-committee of the Appropriations Committee could proceed more judiciously. Accordingly, appropriate measures were introduced in the House by members of the Committee on Naval Affairs to meet the needs, but were not enacted into law in time for the Appropriations Committee to base its action on such legislation. In order to get the Naval bill into operation before the close of the session Mr. Kelley was obliged to proceed under handicap, recommend appropriations for projects of the Navy already authorized and to eliminate every other item.

As a result, the bill passed the House, went to the Senate and was referred to the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs, where, for the first time, constructive work could be done. Hurred hearings were held by the Senate committee, which consisted largely of a duplication of the hearings in the House. Several pages were added to the bill, authorizing new work for which additional appropriations were recommended. The bill was then introduced in the Senate, but was blocked by discussion of armaments and died with the session. With its additional appropriation of more than $100,000,000, doubtless it could not have passed the House. Although the House had not investigated the needs of the Navy exhaustively, many Representatives felt they could not consistently concur with the Senate's action without taking exceptions. Had one House committee been empowered to recommend both new naval legislation and appropriations the two processes would have been combined in the Appropriation bill when it was considered by the House, and it is believed much of the needed proposed legislation would have been enacted into law and the uncertainty that now prevails would have been avoided. No definite arrangement has as yet been outlined, but it is believed an effort will be made to adjust the difficulties experienced in the recent session and render the committee powers more co-operative and effective, with greater satisfaction to all concerned. Both Chairman Butler of the House Committee on Naval Affairs and Chairman Kahn of the House Committee on Military Affairs, in committee and on the floor of the House, expressed their dissatisfaction with the new system of allowing their committees merely the consideration of purely legislative matters, and both have indicated that in the next Congress they would do their utmost to bring about a return to their committees of the powers they formerly exerted on matters requiring appropriations.

THE U.S. ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC FLEETS.

Pacific Fleet May Visit Australasia.

The press report that the U.S. Pacific Fleet will make a cruise to Australasia during July, August and September, according to dispatches from Sydney and Auckland, lacks confirmation at the Navy Department. Former Secretary Daniels, it will be recalled, stated on Oct. 16, 1920, that Admirals Wilson and Rodman, commanders-in-chief of the U.S. Atlantic and U.S. Pacific Fleet, respectively, had been instructed to submit tentative itineraries for foreign cruises for their fleets in the summer of 1921. The U.S. Pacific Fleet, it was said, might visit the South Sea Islands and ports in Australia and New Zealand, and probably Tasmania and Van Diemen's Land. The itinerary of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet was expected to take in the east coast of South America, also Cape Town and possibly other South African ports. Prior to his leaving office Secretary Daniels made no further announcement of the proposed foreign cruises, but it is presumed that the tentative itineraries were submitted to him and are still before the Navy Department for approval and action.

United Fleet in Pacific Ocean?

Orders for the concentration of our fleets in the Pacific "will be sent out within a few weeks . . . not as a military gesture but merely as a return to sound naval strategy," according to a Washington dispatch to the New York Tribune of March 14. This was learned, said the report, "from a very high authority." Secretary of the Navy Denby when asked on March 14 concerning the basis for the report requested that he be not asked to discuss it. He had nothing to say, he added, nor would he indicate that the concentration of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet and U.S. Pacific Fleet was under consideration. Later a dispatch to the New York World quotes Secretary Denby as saying that the question of uniting the fleets had not yet been taken up. The Secretary's attitude, however, was regarded by press correspondents as a tacit admission that there might be some truth in the report because there had been no positive denial on the part of the Secretary. At the Navy Department, officers who would be cognizant of a purpose to concentrate the fleet strength in the Pacific were equally uncommunicative relative to plans for such concentration. Other officers were inclined to see a basis for the report in the visits to the Navy Department, since the new administration took charge, of several admirals who have been outspoken in opposition to what has been characterized as a division of the Battle Fleet in two parts 5,000 miles distant from each other. These officers apparently saw a connection between these visits and the statement contained in the New York Tribune dispatch which referred to the "division" as having been "declared by every important naval authority for a generation to be the height of folly" and that "the present situation of the United States Fleet has given grave concern to high naval officers." The dispatch, which was signed by Carter Field, further stated that the question has arisen "if the fleet cannot maintain itself in time of peace on the Pacific coast, certainly it could not maintain itself in time of war" and that "the time to find out about this is right now," etc. The apparent similarity between the dispatch and the views expressed by Rear Admiral William F. Fullam, U.S.N., during his testimony before the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs, was commented upon by Navy officers. At the hearing on Feb. 18 Admiral Fullam said: "This division of our existing Navy violates the fundamental principles of naval strategy. As far as the naval strategy and naval policy of the United States are concerned, Admiral Mahan lived, and, wrote in vain. The Navy Department has ignored him. . . . Sophistry alone can defend the present condition of our fleet. The united fleet of the United States should be stationed in the Pacific for the present. It is not needed in the Atlantic. We must learn immediately how to maintain the fleet in the Pacific. It is folly to say our bases there are insufficient to maintain our fighting forces. If we cannot maintain it there now in time of peace, how in the name of common sense can we hope so to maintain it there in time of war?"

An indication of the possible attitude of Congress toward a plan for the concentration of the fleet in the Pacific appears in the statement contained in the report on the Naval Appropriation bill which failed to pass at the last session, by Senator Poinexter, thus: "Your committee has recognized the policy which has already been adopted of maintaining a large portion, if not all, of the fleet on the Pacific, in view of the rapidly developing interests commercially and otherwise in that section." As the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs during the hearings on this bill went into executive session to consider the needs of bases on the Pacific coast, this statement in the report would lend substance to the supposition that on the testimony given by the Chief of Naval Operations and from Senator Ball, who was chairman of the Special Joint Committee of Congress on Pacific Coast Naval Bases, the committee gave its endorsement to Navy plans for the concentration of the fleet on the Pacific coast.

HAWAII NOT A PACIFIC "GIBRALTAR."

A press report from Washington, D.C., that the United States was planning "to establish a Gibraltar in the Pacific" and that Major Gen. Leonard Wood's visit of inspection to the Philippine Islands was connected with the plan, was denied by Secretary of War Weeks on March 14. The plans for General Wood's inspection visit had been unchanged, said the Secretary, and it would be concerned only with military and administrative conditions in the Philippine Islands. Secretary of the Navy Denby the same day stated that he could not discuss questions of policy and strategy until he was well informed on them. So far as plans for defense from the Army point of view are concerned, the War Department for years has been making studies of defense problems in which Hawaii has an important place. The extension of military developments in the islands is on a modest scale, as indicated in the request for appropriations for the work. The War Department estimates for the fiscal year 1922 for military posts in Hawaii aggregated $3,334,000, to be expended for these items: $230,000 for repair of Koolau pipe line; $520,000 for completion of quarters for one regiment of Artillery at Schofield Barracks; $415,000 for the Kuree reservoir; $750,000 for a hospital at Schofield Barracks; and $1,419,000 for quarters for one regiment of Infantry at Schofield Barracks. For coast defenses, including submarine mine defense, land and works, construction of gun and mortar batteries, electric plant and the preparation of plans for defense, the War Department renewed the provision of the act of May 21, 1920, which authorized a total of $336,540 for this program. This figure is so modest from a construction point of view that of itself it refutes the declaration that the United States contemplates a "Gibraltar" in the Pacific.

SECRETARY DENBY TO VISIT HAITI AND SAN DOMINGO.

The U.S. Atlantic Fleet, Admiral Henry B. Wilson, U.S.N., commander-in-chief, will be inspected by Secretary of the Navy Denby at the rendezvous in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. Secretary Denby will leave Washington on March 20 for Key West, where a destroyer will be waiting to take him to Guantanamo, and after a few days with the fleet, he will visit Haiti and San Domingo. "I want to get on the fleet and take in all I possibly can of that side of the Navy," said the Secretary in announcing his plans on March 14. He plans to return on a destroyer, landing at Charleston, S.C., to make an inspection of the navy yard and gain first-hand knowledge on which to base the Navy Department recommendations, as Congress has shown a disposition to repeal appropriations for improvements at that port. His visit to Haiti and San Domingo would be one of inspection solely, said Secretary Denby, and would have no connection with recent efforts to obtain withdrawal of the marines from duty in the island. In his opinion the board of inquiry of which Rear Admiral Henry T. Mayo, U.S.N., was chairman, had in its report established the settled policy which the United States will pursue in Haiti and San Domingo. Accompanying the Secretary on his trip will be Capt. J. K. Robinson, U.S.N., office of Naval Operations, and Col. D. D. Porter, U.S.M.C., who has been in charge of marine publicity and recruiting at Marine Corps headquarters.

NAVY DIRECTORY TO BE ISSUED QUARTERLY.

The Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, announces that due to the lack of sufficient funds, it has become necessary to suspend the monthly issue of the Navy Directory. Until further notice, it will be published quarterly starting April 1, 1921.

CONGRESS TO CONVENE ON APRIL 11.

The extraordinary session of the 67th Congress will begin on April 11 according to an announcement made in Washington on March 14; the day the special session of the Senate came to an end.

C. H. Barnwell, jr., June 29; H. A. Schwartz, June 25; E. G. Herlihy, June 26; A. J. Funk, June 27; G. M. Ferris, June 28; E. L. MacLean, June 29. To be first lieutenant, 2d Lieut. W. C. Dever, June 4.

Porto Rico Regiment of Infantry—To be captain, 1st Lieut. A. Moreno, May 20; C. M. Lopez (exam.), since retired, June 20. To be first lieutenant, 2d Lieut. E. Vasquez-Bruno, April 31; V. N. Cordero, May 20; M. Cordero, June 20.

ERROR IN ARMY CONFIRMATIONS.

Transposition of Page in Lists the Cause.

Through an unfortunate official error in assembling the sheets containing the names of first lieutenants to be promoted to captain and second lieutenants to be promoted to first lieutenant the Senate on March 14 confirmed thirty-two second lieutenants as captains who should have been confirmed as first lieutenants. The Senate also, because of this transposition of similarly numbered pages in the typewritten lists, confirmed thirty-three first lieutenants as first lieutenants when they should have been confirmed as first lieutenants. The Senate error from the point of view of the officers involved; but it should be said in fairness to the section of The Adjutant General's office which has charge of this work of preparing the lists that it is one of the most efficient in the War Department and has handled a tremendous amount of detail in connection with the increase of the commissioned personnel of the Army with strikingly few mistakes. The personnel of this section has labored valiantly nights and holidays and Sundays with a splendid spirit of service, and for the reason that there has been a constant call for lists for nomination, and ever in a hurry, the error in this case is in a large measure excusable.

Does Not Affect Ultimate Rank.

The error, however, will not deprive the officers concerned of their rank, for they will be commissioned in the grade to which originally nominated for promotion, as captains and first lieutenants, respectively, through recess promotions; and they will be renominated in their proper grades for confirmation at the opening of the extraordinary session of Congress, which is set for April 11. At the War Department it was stated that the question as to the legal status of these officers erroneously confirmed in a grade in which it was not intended that they should be placed had been frequently decided in the past and that the Senate had the power to make such corrections, and that it had exercised such power on many occasions. Aside from that question it was declared that it was a reflection upon the officers involved to consider for one moment that any one of them would attempt to maintain a position in a grade to which he knew he was not entitled by reason of the accident of a clerical error. The recess appointments in their proper grades, it was said, would unquestionably correct this error for the duration of the recess and that the correction would be accepted not alone by the officers concerned but by the Senate when the matter was laid before it. So far as could be recalled, no officer in the War Department had knowledge of a clerical error which involved so many officers.

COURT RULING ON CLASSIFICATION.

Individual Action by President Necessary.

The contention of counsel for Col. William F. Creary and John W. French, who were separated from the Army through the operation of the provisions of the act of June 4, 1920, relative to classification of officers for elimination, that individual action by the President upon the findings of the final classification board is necessary, was upheld in a decision by Chief Justice McCoy, of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, on March 13. The Chief Justice filed a memorandum in which he says: "I have not been able to reach a decision on all the points involved, but am of the opinion that the individual action of the President upon the findings of the final classification board is necessary. I sustain the demurrer to the answer. An opinion covering all points may be filed."

These two officers brought mandamus proceedings against former Secretary of War Baker to compel restoration of their rank and emoluments in the active service after Secretary Baker had approved the findings of the board placing them in Class B and recommending their separation from the Army. The name of Secretary Weeks has now been substituted, and if a mandamus has to be ordered it will lie against the latter. In the suit the officers complained that action by the Secretary prevented a review of their cases by the President as the law provided. Mr. Baker answered that all the provisions of the law had been observed and asked that the court action be dismissed.

PROMOTIONS IN THE NAVAL SERVICES.

Navy Nominations that Failed to Reach Senate.

All nominations affecting the commissioned personnel of the Navy that were sent by the President to the Senate during the Sixty-sixth Congress were confirmed. In addition there was submitted to the President for transmittal to the Senate during the third session (which closed on March 4) a group of nominations, on which no action was taken by former President Wilson. This list which failed to reach the Senate was made up of officers nominated for promotion and a few who were nominated for original appointment, approximately 400 names in the grades from rear admiral to lieutenant (j.g.). This list, with additions, will be resubmitted to the President shortly and it is very likely that it will be confirmed early in the extraordinary session of the 67th Congress, it is believed in the Bureau of Navigation.

NOTES OF THE AIR SERVICE.

Flying Cadets Qualify.

Six of the March Field class of cadets at Post Field, Fort Sill, Okla., received their commissions in the Officers' Reserve Corps March 1. They were: A. D. Bloomquist, Gay H. Brokaw, William Knechtie, B. B. Perolta, A. A. Kelly, William R. Barnes. The other cadets that finished the course were: Shirley Patton, C. P. Harroh, Archie Beal and Paul E. Macy. Major F. Bradley, commanding, gave permission for the graduating cadets to qualify in pursuit, using a Fokker machine. Brokaw, Bloomquist, Patton and Perolta were given thirty minutes each and they appreciated the chance to fly a pursuit plane.

Status of Certain Military Aviators.

In regard to the status of Col. William Mitchell, Majors J. N. Reynolds, L. H. Brereton and Carl Spatz and Capt. M. A. Hall, commissioned under Sec. 6, act of July 24, 1917, an opinion of the Judge Advocate General states: The first four officers, since they are serving under commissions with rank above captain, are not entitled to the benefits of Secs. 13 and 127a, act of June 4, 1920. Captain Hall, under commission as captain, is entitled to rank, etc., as major and should so rank from the date he reached the grade of captain. All these officers are attached to the Air Service and are rated military aviators.

Pacific Fleet Seaplanes Return to Base.

Eight of the eleven seaplanes of the Pacific Fleet that made the flight from North Island Air Station, San Diego, Calif., to Balboa, C.Z., returned to their base on March 10. The others were expected to arrive the following day. Capt. Henry C. Mustin, U.S.N., commanding the squadron, is quoted as saying that on the flight south the seaplanes traveled 3,200 miles in 51 hours 48 minutes, actual flying time. The ships made the home-ward flight in 57 hours 17 minutes. The average speed was approximately one mile per minute.

Former Italian Airship Roma Delivered to U.S.

Major John G. Thornell, Air Ser., U.S.A., formally received from the Italian government on March 4 the airship Roma recently purchased from that government by the United States, says a press message from Rome. A short trial flight preceded the ceremony of transfer. Accompanying Major Thornell are Capt. Dale Mabry and Lieut. Walter J. Reed, both Air Ser., U.S.A., and five non-commissioned officers. The Major made a test flight of the ship on March 14, before dismantling her for shipment to the United States. In less than eight hours she sailed about 500 miles, the route including Naples, Mount Vesuvius and the peaks of the Apennines. Among the passengers were Col. Evan M. Johnson, U.S.A., military attaché at the American Embassy, Rome, and Robert Underwood Johnson, U.S. Ambassador to Italy. During the trip Major Thornell sent the following radio message to Rome: "Aboard the airship Roma during an inspection trip: I consider the Roma a truly wonderful ship, easy to handle, able, very comfortable and complete. The inspection trip surpassed expectations. The ship has good speed and ought to be a great success as a commercial airship over land or water. I am most impressed with this semi-rigid type of airship and believe it has great possibilities. The Italian engineers who designed and built the Roma deserve great distinction for accomplishing such an engineering feat."

NAVY PRECEDENCE OPINION.

Attorney General's Ruling as to Staff and Line.

In an opinion rendered by former Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, on the question of precedence of staff officers with officers of the line of the Navy, dated March 3, but which did not reach the Bureau of Navigation until March 13, the Attorney General holds that Secs. 1485 and 1486, Revised Statutes, have not been repealed. The opinion will bring about a change in the existing arrangement of precedence because it makes a combination of length of service and date of commission in their relation to precedence, for officers who entered the Service prior to March 4, 1913. The Attorney General held that staff officers rank with staff officers of other staff corps by dates of commission. The Bureau of Navigation contended that they should so rank by length of service. The Attorney General held that staff officers take precedence with line officers according to length of service, and in this matter he upheld the view of the Bureau of Navigation. In the Bureau of Navigation it was stated that the opinion will cause many changes in the precedence list of the Navy, but that it would be some time before the exact effect could be determined. Lists are being prepared of the rear admirals to meet the view of the Attorney General, then these lists are being studied and criticized in an attempt to arrive at an exact and equitable adjustment. This plan is, of course, being worked out in co-operation with the office of the Judge Advocate General. It is hoped that the list of rear admirals will have been adjusted and approved in the next ten days, but it is stated that it will require months of time to complete the rearrangement of the entire commissioned personnel of the Navy in conformity with the ruling of the Attorney General.

The opinion of the Attorney General, dated at the Department of Justice, March 3, 1921, and addressed to the Secretary of the Navy, is as follows:

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of Feb. 16, 1921, requesting an expression of my opinion upon the following questions of law:

"1. What rule under existing law governs the precedence of staff officers who entered the Navy prior to March 4, 1913, (a) with officers of the line, and (b) with officers of other staff corps who also entered the Navy prior to said date?

"Revised Statutes, Sec. 1485, provides that: 'Officers of the staff corps of the Navy shall take precedence in their several corps, and in their several grades, and with officers of the line with whom they hold relative rank, according to length of service in the Navy.'

"The act of Aug. 29, 1916 (39 Stat., 556, 578), provides that: 'Officers shall take rank in each staff corps according to the dates of commission in the several grades, excepting in cases where they have gained or lost numbers.'

General Rules of Precedence.

"Even prior to Aug. 29, 1916, the general rule throughout the military Service has been that officers of the same grade take rank with each other according to the dates of their commissions. As applied to line officers of the Navy, this rule is embodied in Revised Statutes, Sec. 1467. In the Army it is the unwritten law (25 Op., 517). But an exception to this general rule was made by Rev. Stat., Sec. 1485. The language of this section that 'officers of the staff corps of the Navy shall take precedence in their several corps, and in their several grades, and with officers of the line with whom they hold relative rank, according to length of service in the Navy' shows clearly that it was intended to apply only as between officers of the same staff corps. But, in the absence of a statute on the subject, the same rule was applied as between officers of different staff corps as being the most convenient. But as staff officers now take precedence in their own corps by date of commission, those reasons of convenience no longer exist. I think, therefore, that the unwritten law applies according to which officers of the same grade take precedence by date of commission.

"The question remains whether the act of Aug. 29, 1916, repeals that provision of Rev. Stat., Sec. 1485, according to which staff officers take precedence with line officers by length of service. The Judge Advocate General has held that it does on the ground that the two statutes are wholly repugnant. He says that it is a physical impossibility to give staff officers precedence in their own corps by date of their commission (as required by the act of Aug. 29, 1916, and at the same time to give them precedence with officers of the line by length of service (as required by Rev. Stat., Sec. 1485)).

Complications—Under Present Law.

"This situation may be illustrated as follows: Suppose Captain A of the Construction outranks Captain B of the same corps by date of commission. Captain B outranks Captain C of the line both by date of commission and by length of service, and Captain C outranks Captain A by length of service. Obviously the order of precedence of these officers cannot be determined by applying either or both of the above statutes. Under the act of Aug. 29, 1916, Captain A outranks B, but that act does not define the relative rank of these officers to Captain C, that is done by Rev. Stat., Sec. 1485, according to which Captain B outranks Captain C, who in turn outranks Captain A. But Captain B does not outrank Captain A, because that is contrary to the express command of the act of Aug. 29, 1916. Thus it is demonstrated, says the J.A.G., that the two statutes are in irreconcilable conflict and that the earlier one is repealed in toto. It is more logical to say that Rev. Stat., Sec. 1485, is repealed only as applied to that situation, and that in the absence of any statute defining the precedence of the staff and line officers, the unwritten law applies, according to which officers of the same grade take precedence by date of commission.

"But it does not follow that Rev. Stat., Sec. 1485, is repealed as to those situations to which it can be applied without coming in conflict with the act of Aug. 29, 1916, as, for instance, between Captains A and C or Captains B and C. It is true that if Rev. Stat., Sec. 1485, is applied the result will be that Captain A will outrank Captain C in some circumstances, while in others the order of precedence will be reversed, and it is contended that this proves that the two statutes are in irreconcilable conflict. It is said that the rank of every officer in the Navy must be fixed relatively to every other officer, regardless of whether or not they are associated together in any way; that it cannot vary according to circumstances; that if there is one rule of precedence for staff officers among themselves and a different one between staff and line officers it may happen that an officer will find that his inferior of yesterday is his superior to-day, and that because of this fact great difficulty will be experienced in administering the laws applicable to the Navy.

Same Precedence Rule Desirable, But Not Provided.

"That it would be very desirable to have the same rule of precedence for all officers of the Navy may be admitted, but Congress undoubtedly has power to prescribe one rule of precedence for certain classes of officers and a different rule for other classes. I think it is clear that it has done so in the present instance, because the conditions under which the two statutes under consideration apply are entirely distinct.

"The situation now presented is no different in principle from that which existed prior to the passage of the act of Aug. 29, 1916. Rev. Stat., Sec. 1467, which provides that line officers shall take rank in each grade according to the dates of their commissions, was originally enacted July 16, 1862. Rev. Stat., Sec. 1485, was originally enacted March 3, 1871. If they cannot be harmonized, then Rev. Stat., Sec. 1467 was repealed by implication in 1871 and has never been in force since then. In that case its inclusion in the Rev. Stat. would not revive it, for it is well settled that when two statutes originally enacted at different periods of time are subsequently incorporated in a revision, the times when they first took effect will be ascertained by the courts and effect will be given to that one which was the latest declaration of the legislative will, if they are inconsistent. (The opinion here cites precedents.)

More Than One Precedence Rule Possible.

"But it was never considered that Rev. Stat., Sec. 1467, had been repealed by Sec. 1485. They have been in force contemporaneously for fifty years, although situations might have arisen similar to those illustrated above. During all that time both of them have been applied, in so far as it was possible to do so, without bringing them in direct conflict. Nor was it ever suggested that the earlier statute was repealed because there could of necessity be only one rule of precedence for all classes of officers in the Navy. That there could be more than one such rule was recognized in an opinion of July 20, 1906, of Acting Attorney General Hoyt, who, while holding that the general rule of precedence in the military service is that officers take rank in every grade according to the dates of their commissions, said:

"This is all entirely consistent with the special rule in the Navy, and within any particular grade that as between line and staff officers in that grade length of service shall determine the precedence." (25 Op., 16, 19.)

Staff Precedence with Line by Length of Service.

"I think that that part of Sec. 1485 which provides that staff officers shall take precedence with officers of the line by length of service is still in force, except in the case of the conflict with the act of Aug. 29, 1916, as illustrated above. In this opinion I am strengthened by the consideration that if Congress had intended by the act of Aug. 29, 1916, to establish the same rule of precedence for the entire Navy it would have done so, as it in fact did in the act of March 4, 1913, which provides that: 'Sec. 1486, Rev. Stat., shall not apply in the case of officers who entered the Navy after the passage of this act, and all such officers shall take precedence, when of the same grade, according to their respective dates of commission in that grade.'

Staff Precedence with Staff by Commission.

"I think, furthermore, that staff officers who entered the Navy prior to March 4, 1913, take precedence with officers of other staff corps who also entered the Navy prior to said date by date of commission.

"2. Should officers of the line and staff of the Navy who entered the Navy prior to March 4, 1913, and who have been advanced on the Navy Register, be credited, for purposes of precedence, with 'constructive service' sufficient to place them ahead of all others, line and staff, over whom they have been so advanced?

"Rev. Stat., Sec. 1486, as amended by the act of March 3, 1881, provides that:

"In estimating length of service for such purposes (precedence) the several officers of the staff corps shall respectively take precedence in their several grades and with those officers of the line of the Navy with whom they hold relative rank who have been in the naval service six years longer than such officers of said staff corps have been in said service, and officers who have been advanced or lost numbers of the Navy register shall be considered as having gained or lost length of service accordingly: Provided, That nothing in this section shall be so construed as to give to any officers of the staff corps precedence of or higher relative rank than that of another staff officer in the same grade and corps and whose commission in such grade and corps antedates that of such officer."

"In an opinion of Feb. 25, 1881 (17 Op., 56), Attorney General Devens held that under this statute an officer who had been promoted by selection without regard to seniority and thereby advanced on the Navy register should be considered as having gained length of service according to his promotion. From what was said in answer to the first question it follows that Rev. Stat., Sec. 1486, is still in force. It applies as much where officers have been advanced by selection over officers in their own corps as in any other case. I am of the opinion, therefore, that your second question must be answered in the affirmative."

NOTES OF NAVY PERSONNEL.

since Captain Carpenter enjoys the respect, confidence and esteem of his fellow officers, regardless of their rank, in exceptional degree. "This," our correspondent adds, "is a consideration too important to be overlooked in this critical period of our naval history when every effort is being bent towards the restoration of morale and esprit de corps. Captain Carpenter is peculiarly fitted to become the head of the Supply Corps of the Navy and to establish and maintain those corps standards of which he has always been the foremost exponent."

VARIOUS NAVAL ITEMS.

The U.S. battleship Colorado, a vessel of 32,000 tons, will be launched at Camden, N.J., on March 22. She will be christened by Mrs. Ruth Nicholson Melville, of Denver, Colo., daughter of Senator S. D. Nicholson.

The battleship Tennessee will have her trials off Rockland, Me., on April 1, according to announcement received by Rear Admiral Herbert O. Dunn, commandant of the 1st Naval District, Boston.

Eagle Boat 29, in command of Comdr. W. W. Ramsey, U.S.N.R.F., and manned by members of the Naval Reserve Force, sailed from Boston March 10 for a two weeks' cruise as far as Key West, Fla., and return about March 26.

Five Navy Airplane Designs in Competition.

The Secretary of the Navy has approved the findings of the board of Navy officers appointed to consider designs submitted in the Navy shipboard airplane design competition for a special type of two-place airplane for spotting and control of gunfire of battleships at sea. For this present types of Navy airplanes are not wholly satisfactory, while the present and projected types of Army airplanes are entirely unsuited for Navy use. The outstanding features brought out under the competition are ability to land on water or on the deck of an aircraft carrier and to take the air from the deck of a carrier, either with the aid of a catapult or under their own power after a run along the deck. Forty-two designs of thirty competitors were submitted for the preliminary examination of Feb. 15. The designs of the following competitors were accepted, and are eligible for the final examinations: Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Corporation, Garden City, N.Y.; Dayton-Wright Airplane Co. (three designs), Dayton, Ohio; G. Elias and Bro., Inc., Buffalo, N.Y.; Alexander Klemin, New York city; A. L. Morse, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass. Under the rules only those competitors whose designs were accepted on preliminary examination are eligible to submit these designs for final examination. Although each competitor may present all designs which were accepted on preliminary examination, only one award can be made to each competitor on final examination; awards will be in order of merit in the form of contracts for the following amounts for the non-exclusive ownership of the designs and the rights to use the same in any manner desired by the department: First merit, $16,000; second, $10,000; third, $5,000; fourth, $3,000.

Marine Corps Notes.

The report of the Neville board on the officers found qualified for permanent appointment has been completed. Copies of the report for publication, however, is not expected for several weeks.

Col. L. M. Gulick, whose foreign tour of duty in command of the Marine detachment in Peking, China, ends June 25, will return to Washington for assignment. He will be relieved in Peking by Col. Lincoln Karmany, who will be detached March 28 from command of Marine barracks, Mare Island, Calif.

The Nicaraguan Senate on March 12 rejected a motion requesting the United States Government to withdraw the Marine Corps detachment stationed in Managua, says a dispatch to the New York Times from the Nicaraguan capital.

THE AMERICAN FORCES IN GERMANY.

Military and social events of the American Forces in Germany are noted in recent issues of the Amaroc News, of Coblenz, Germany. Seven officers and eighteen enlisted men of the U.S. Army quarantine expedition sent some months ago from Coblenz to Camp Grupa, Poland, to delouse the repatriated members of the Polish General Haller's army, who later were returned to the U.S. on an Army transport, have been decorated by the Polish government with the Commemorative Cross of Poland in recognition of their work. More than 2,000 officers and men and the wives of both the commissioned and enlisted personnel of the Polish troops were deloused. The officers decorated were Major J. G. Farnbach, Capt. J. J. Warden and S. J. Rhode, Lieut. R. Orsinger, J. D. Edgar, L. L. Shook and H. D. Seebald. Under the leadership of Col. Harry E. Knight, officers of the 50th Infantry have begun to organize a polo team. Major H. B. Crea has been selected to look after a suitable location for grounds, obtaining of mounts and other matters. Several officers of the 50th have played polo at West Point and on other teams.

More than 170 trophies were won by members of the 8th Infantry in 1920 as prizes in either distinctively athletic or military events of various kinds. Among prizes won by officers were a gold medal by Major R. O. Barton, for first place in the departmental auto-rifle competition in August, 1920. Lieut. T. B. Steel won both a gold and silver medal in pistol shooting. Hamilton Johnson won a bronze medal for pistol shooting, and Co. B, commanded by Lieut. Paul B. Malone, a silver loving cup in the departmental shoot. Lieut. L. H. Bixby won a gold medal as a member of the championship rifle team of the department.

One of the most important social events of the season was the wedding on Feb. 8 of Lieut. Henry T. Allen, jr., son of the Commanding General and Mrs. Allen, to Miss Juliette de Souza at the home of the bride, Chateau Gevrolles, at Montigny-sur-Aube, Cote d'Or, France. The guests from Coblenz who attended were Gen. and Mrs. Allen, Major and Mrs. Frank M. Andrews, Capt. Joseph H. Tate, Lieut. Wilbur B. Sumner, aid to General Allen, Mrs. Philip H. Bagby and Miss Johnston. After the wedding breakfast Lieut. and Mrs. Allen started for the Riviera on their honeymoon. They intended to reside at Coblenz later. Several hundred persons attended the informal dinner party given by the sons attended the Coblenz-hof, Coblenz, on Feb. 11. Officers' Mess of the Coblenz-hof, Coblenz, on Feb. 11. It said, in part: "At eleven o'clock the Minister reviewed the units of the 1st Brigade. These magnificent soldiers I can only compare to lead soldiers taken from a box and arranged in lines the length of the parade ground by a skilful hand; not a movement, not even their eyes moved. After having bestowed a number of decorations on officers the Minister took post on a stand decorated with the colors of the Allies. The imposing mass put itself in motion automatically, without confusion, without delay. Infantry: All the men, of the same height and of a perfectly identical bearing, advanced in mass formation, bayonets on the rifles. Cavalry: The horses in straight lines. Then, Artillery with their white chargers. Then came other troops equipped with machine guns in automobiles, on which the men sat with their arms crossed like statues. An impressive spectacle, giving the impression of a powerful and mechanical force, the slightest movement of which is made on the signal of its leaders. The Minister heartily congratulated General Allen. In the afternoon firing maneuvers, with real ammunition, gave us a further proof of the perfect discipline of this new Army and of the American way of doing things."

The score against Pennsylvania was 19 to 6.

Watson and Gerber won the first two bouts, on decisions, for Penn. State, but Swigart, the Navy captain, threw Detar, the Penn. leader, with a double bar, and Morgan, gaining a decision over Oehrle in the 145-pound class, put the Navy in the lead. Smith and Willkie, Navy, won over Mowrer and McMahon on decisions, while Lewis threw Spangier in the 175-pound class in forty-nine seconds, record time for the match and the whole local season. The heavyweight event brought together Willkie, Navy, and McMahon, State, giants weighing 220 pounds each and standing five inches over six feet.

Princeton was at a disadvantage in the gymnastic match, which the Navy won by 39 to 15, as several of its best men had been taken sick at Princeton and the bar events had to be contested. The Navy won all first except the club swinging, Hales, Danis and Strang being its best performers.

The Navy won over the University of Pennsylvania in a match of fencing with mixed weapons by 10 to 2 bouts. The midshipmen had easy victories with foil and sabers, but Heddinger, Pennsylvania, inflicted the only defeat of the season with the dueling sword on Hunter, of the Navy.

FORT HUACHUCA.

Fort Huachuca, Ariz., March 8, 1921.

Reminiscences of former officers who at one time served with the 10th Cavalry appeared in the last issue of the Buffalo Bulletin, organ of the "10th Horse." Brig. Gen. Winsford S. Edgerly, U.S.A., writing from Cooperstown, N.Y., says he finds the 10th "still has the 'pop' which gave it its reputation as a crack Cavalry regiment during the short time I had the honor to belong to it, and I am confident that with its present officers it will keep up its high standard." Major James S. Greene wrote from Fort Ethan Allen, saying that there is quite a colony of retired or discharged men from the 10th living near there. Major E. M. Whiting, 1st Cav., wrote from Camp Harry J. Jones.

Major E. L. N. Glass and his family are absent on a hunting trip in the vicinity of Fort Apache. During his absence Capt. J. F. R. Scott is acting as editor-in-chief of the Bulletin. The next race meet is scheduled for April 2, while the horse show is to take place on April 9. Major Joseph V. Kuznik injected "the element of surprise" into the maneuvers of his squadron last week by parking his command in a cabin just outside the east gate, and moving in dismounted as Major Robinson's outfit marched out. The umpires couldn't tell what it was all about, but 'twas a noble victory, says the Bulletin.

69TH N.Y., COL. JOHN J. PHELAN.

Incident to the review of the 69th Infantry, N.Y.N.G., by Brig. Gen. George R. Dyer, 1st Brigade, N.Y., in its armory in New York city on the night of March 10, there was a presentation of 151 Mexican Border medals and fifteen State World War medals to members and ex-members of the regiment. The regiment had a large turnout of men and was promptly formed by Capt. S. A. Dineen, the regimental adjutant. When reported to Col. John J. Phelan it presented a very handsome and serviceable appearance, and made a most commendable showing in the review and parade.

General Dyer, after the men entitled to medals were ordered to the front and center, made an interesting address, touching on the popularity of the regiment, praising its fighting ability and loyalty to the state and nation. He praised the progress the 69th had made during the past nine years, and referred to the present organization as a "great big, strong and efficient regiment." General Dyer paid special compliment to Colonel Phelan, the present commander. The General also spoke of the existing state of unrest in the country, and urged the men to put aside all jealousies and ill-will in civil life, and work loyally for the common good and prosperity of the United States. The three officers of the regiment were in command, respectively, of Majors Cummings, McSherry and Conradt. Among the special guests present were Brig. Gen. Edwin Duffy, retired; Col. J. J. Byrne, 9th Inf.; ex-Col. L. D. Conley, 69th; Lieutenant Colonel Eben, 71st Inf., and ex-Major F. E. Sidman, U.S.A.

P. J. Crowley, P. J. Hall, G. W. Magee and M. J. Reidy, Capt. G. J. O'Flynn, Sergt. Major P. J. McAvoy and Sergts. John F. Mullins and Michael J. Murphy. Among those who received World War medals were Majors F. J. McSherry, P. E. Nagle and M. H. Meaney, Capt. R. J. Allen, J. P. Healy, Lieut. J. J. Flannery and J. C. Hoctor. There will be a review of the regiment on Friday night, April 23, by Major General O'Ryan.

Following the inspection by Colonel Ronayne, U.S.A., retired, state inspector-instructor, and Lieutenant Colonel Peterson, Inf., U.S.A., senior inspector-instructor, 6th Corps Area, the Provisional Battalion held a parade and review. A regimental reception and dance, in charge of Lieut. Col. Edward H. White, followed the ceremony and muster, the regimental band furnishing the music. Colonels Stacy and Straat and Major Dougherty, all U.S.A., among other officers, were special guests of honor. ARMY AND NAVY HEADQUARTERS

TWENTY ACRES AND PLENTY

Good times are coming and business will soon be humming. The pendulum swings back to the productive side. We are at the dawn of another era of prosperity. Normal conditions will come back when more of us get back to the land. Our furrows of care will disappear when we begin to turn more furrows in the soil.

The remedy for the evils existing in our over-crowded cities today is the movement BACK TO THE SOIL. The City Toiler—the workingman—the clerk—the office man—all must look to the SOIL for the opportunity to break clear from the eight o'clock bell, the tyranny of the boss, and the diminishing chance. The man who looks ahead will prepare himself for that time by getting a home. My advice to you, therefore, is to get a home while you are able to do so, and begin now.

In this day of unrest, the safe investor puts his money in LAND. It can not burn up or blow away—it is panic-proof. Good agricultural land is the foundation of all lasting prosperity.

Get an income-producing home and you will have a steady income. You can do it by taking advantage of our liberal terms. We will clear and cultivate your land for you on our fair and equitable ten-per-cent-above-cost plan.

A monster land movement is just getting under way in our part of Florida. Until recently the mistaken idea that Florida is hot in summer has kept many desirable settlers away. But they are coming now—thousands strong. Settlers, farmers, stockmen, fruit growers, truck gardeners, home-seekers from every State in the Union—and Canada. They want Florida land while it can yet be had at reasonable prices. Those who wait too long will find this land quoted at $200 to $500 per acre in the next few years.

California passed through just such a stage. Today, wild lands available for citrus culture are sold at $500 to $700 per acre and little left at that figure.

Last year gardeners in Orange and nearby counties in Florida cleared over $1,000 per acre on truck crops. Orange and grapefruit groves sold last fall as high as $1,000 to $3,000 per acre. Individual grove owners cleared as high as $1,000 to $1,500 an acre on the sale of fruit last year.

All you need is a moderate amount of money and a fair knowledge of farming. A dollar an acre a month will pay for your land. Send for our Big Free Book—"TWENTY ACRES AND PLENTY." It tells about our easy monthly payments, sick and out-of-work clauses and free protective features. Address SYLVESTER E. WILSON, Dept. H 41, Orlando, Florida.

(NOTE: Mr. Wilson is Treasurer and principal owner of the Produce Reporter Company, Chicago, publishers of the "Blue Book," which is to the Fruit and Produce Trade what Dun's and Bradstreet are in other commercial fields.)

N. W.—While the District of Columbia has not awarded a bonus for war service the District did on July 4, 1919, award a war service medal to all residents of the District who served honorably in the U.S. Army, Navy or Marine Corps between the dates of April 6, 1917, and Nov. 11, 1918. Those entitled thereto who have not already received this medal should apply to The A.G. of the District of Columbia.

M. R.—The 27th Infantry was in the Philippines January, 1902, to February, 1904, less sailing time. Was in Cuba 1906 to 1909 and again in Philippines 1916. We cannot figure your foreign service. The A.G. Office should be able to do this for you.

VETERAN.—Retired pay is not exempt from Federal tax. L. P.—Regarding transfer to D.E.M.L. apply through the channel.

N. S. R. asks: Enlisted in Army July 1, 1916, for seven years; discharged Oct. 19, 1919; re-enlisted Oct. 20, 1919, for three years; promoted to grade of sergeant Feb. 2, 1920. Would I be entitled to second enlistment pay July 1, 1920, after completing four years' continuous service, or would I have to serve until July 1, 1921, to draw longevity pay for over five years' service? I have had no change in status since June 4, 1920. Answer: Longevity from July 1, 1921.

G. E. asks: (1) Is a soldier who served in Cuba during 1902 and 1903 entitled to double time toward retirement? (2) A soldier commissioned from the ranks in 1917 and mustered out of the service as an officer on Oct. 31, 1919, when he retires does he draw pay as a warrant officer? Answer: (1) No. (2) Not if retired after June 4, 1920.

R. A. P. asks: Served as commissioned officer during World War; honorably discharged from commission 1919; re-enlisted and was retired as enlisted man September, 1919. Am I AMERICAN LAKE asks: Enlisted Oct. 20, 1916; discharged Jan. 16, 1920, as private; re-enlisted next day. Am I entitled to three months' re-enlistment pay under the old act? Answer: No, because your active term of four years for which you enlisted was not up until Oct. 20, 1920.

A. W. J.—If you retired before June 4, 1920, and served under a commission during the war, state the facts to Chief of Finance and apply for pay of retired warrant officer.

KAY asks: In answer to query by F. L. C. in your issue of Feb. 5 you state, "Officer now in Regular Service counts toward longevity that part of his National Guard service that was rendered as a part of the United States Army during the emergency." Does such National Guard service count toward time in computing length of service for longevity pay or only for the purpose of computing length of service for promotion? If for purpose of computing length of service for longevity pay please quote authority. Answer: Both; see paragraph five of Section 127a, amended National Defense act.

J. B. asks: (1) What time in 1901 did the Headquarters, 23d Infantry, leave the Philippine Islands, transport Buford? (2) Does time lost, sick in hospital, G.O. 81, 1912, have to be made up for retirement? Answer: Sept. 29, by way of Gibraltar, reaching New York Dec. 1. (2) Yes.

W. J. S. asks: (1) Has a bill been passed which limits the time of service in the Philippine Islands to eighteen months? (2) How many camps are going to be kept permanent for use by the Army? Answer: (1) No. (2) Not determined.

A. H. G. asks: Was commissioned October, 1917. Discharged April, 1918. Retire August, 1924. Do I receive the retired warrant officer's pay and do I get the allowances of a first lieutenant? Answer: No.

A. D.—If Congress amends the Vocational Rehabilitation laws, new regulations will be issued.

J. E. W., L. G. and A. J. J.—It is not possible for us to answer in detail the dates of arrival and departure of various units on foreign service, as the regimental histories are not complete as to these matters. Apply to The A.G. for your service towards retirement. Travel pay retirement is for actual travel to home.

J. P. S. and W. P. O.—Retired pay of staff sergeant is the same as that of a sergeant, the act of June 4, 1920, making the same base rates applicable to grades three and four. On active duty grade three has commutation advantages not given to grade four. Pay including commutation is $65.

SUBSCRIBER: The article to which you refer in issue of May 1, 1920, evidently contained a typographical error in the figure quoted.

G. L. F.—Only citizens of the Philippine Islands may be appointed officers of Philippine Scouts hereafter. Apply to nearest corps area commander for circular now being issued as noted in our issue of Feb. 26.

H. R.—The $90 bonus is not payable in the Reserve. Enlisted men do not wear officers' insignia. Apply through channel regarding promotions in Reserve.

R. X. N.—First sergeant retired Nov. 10, 1920, receives three-fourths active pay of his grade, $74.20, as set forth in the Army Reorganization act, plus commutation, $15.75, total $71.40.

E. A. R.—If your mother, who was a Civil War widow drawing a pension until remarried, later became a widow again, let her apply to the Pension Commissioner for reinstatement as a pensioner.

M. B. asks: A man re-enlisted in 1911 and went to Panama, serving there until 1914. Is he entitled to the twenty per cent. until 1914, or only until 1912, when the twenty per cent. stopped? Answer: Until Aug. 24, 1912, only.

E. B.—There will be no examinations in the near future for master sergeants, O.D. We believe the man you mention retires very soon. The announcement that no examinations will be necessary for the first 285 on the roster of ordnance sergeants was correct.

J. W. H.—The allowances of a warrant officer on the active list are the same as those of a second lieutenant. We have had no instances of a warrant officer resigning in order to re-enlist and retire as an enlisted man. The J.A.G. would render an opinion in such case as to counting warrant officer time toward retirement. When mounted a warrant officer's footwear would be that prescribed for an officer.

F. J.—A retired soldier who wishes to live in Europe would apply to The A.G. for regulations governing reports and pay while abroad.

N. O. P.—The stars on the Victory medal have no significance. They are but an artistic balance to the inscription along the top of medal.

E. B. W.—The U.S.S. O'Brien formerly had the torpedo experimental duty at the N.T. station, Newport. She will probably go back there when another vessel is needed; no definite decision has been made.

C. D. M.—The board of examination has not completed examination of application for transfer to Supply Corps. Report likely about April 1.

J. M. H. N.—All bills not completed in the 66th Congress are dead until reintroduced. Reserve commissions will be issued for all arms, corps and departments, including Finance Department. When Congress reconvenes apply to chairman of Military Committee of the House regarding legislation for former accountable officers.

L. J. R.—The 3d Cavalry is at Fort Myer. If you are still in the Service you may re-enlist; otherwise not. Apply through channel.

D. G.—As to whether you are entitled to any back pay apply through channel. We believe your transfer under the conditions you name carried with it reduction in grade, and that there is nothing due you.

SEVENTH DIVISION NOTES.

Camp Meade, Md., March 5, 1921.

Brig. Gen. and Mrs. E. F. McGlachlin, Jr., and Miss Elisabeth McGlachlin contemplate a visit to Texas early in April.

Mrs. Ode O. Nichols, who had just recently recovered from an ulcerated condition of the throat, was en route the other evening to an entertainment with Colonel Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Kirk, Captains Bush and Millard, Col. and Mrs. Nichols walking ahead, when Mrs. Nichols fell into a ditch some four feet deep, which had been dug and left exposed. Mrs. Nichols tore the ligaments in her left knee and hip and is again confined to her bed.

There will be one of the best boxing entertainments of the year held at the gymnasium here on the evening of March 19. It will be the semi-finals between this and one of the other districts in this corps area. The finals will take place later between those qualifying at this and the other district meet, to be held on the same evening at Fort Myer.

The 7th Division entertained at a dance given at the old Visitors' House, which has been remodeled and arranged and is now Service Club No. 11. In the receiving line were Col. Abraham G. Lott, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. E. F. McGlachlin, Col. and Mrs. Rockenbach and Major General Cronkhite. Nearly 400 guests were present, including many from corps area headquarters.

Mrs. Le Gette, wife of Lieut. A. S. Le Gette, 64th Inf., who has been visiting friends in Virginia, will join her husband here next week. They will have quarters in G Area.

Major Walter E. L. Hartigan commanded the provisional battalion sent from this camp to Washington to assist in the inauguration of the President. This was an organization of which we feel justly proud, and it was sent in by motor convoy. We called this organization a 100 per cent. battalion.

In a most exciting basketball game the 7th Division won the 3d Corps Area basketball championship from Camp Humphreys, the former title holders, in an extra period contest on the evening of March 1. At the end of the game the score was exactly even. In the five minute extra period both teams scored, but the 7th Division chalked up one more point than its opponent. This was the second game of a series of three, to be played between the two teams to settle the championship. By winning the first two games, however, the second game closed the series. An unusual amount of interest was displayed throughout the division and the game was played before a capacity house. The line-up was as follows: Camp Humphreys—Center, Lieut. Vidal; forwards, Lieuts. Schroeder and Hahn; guards, Lieuts. Niles and Dietrich. 7th Division—Center, Lieut. Brand (captain); forwards, Lieuts. Vevia and Gibson; guards, Lieuts. Robinson and Clatterbos.

Camp Meade, Md., March 12, 1921.

Major and Mrs. Allan Rutherford have arrived at Camp Meade and Major Rutherford has been assigned to the 64th Infantry. They will have quarters in the "Hospital Area."

In the 7th Division animal drawn transportation competition at Camp Meade, March 12, the three four-line teams declared winners were: 80th Field Artillery, blue ribbon, or first prize; 55th Infantry, red ribbon, or second prize; 64th Infantry, white ribbon, or third prize. The competition created deep interest and was attended by Major General Cronkhite, corps area commander, and Brigadier General McGlachlin, 7th Division commander.

Mrs. H. D. Mitchell entertained a small party at bridge Tuesday night. Mrs. Allan Rutherford was guest of honor. Col. E. A. Lewis entertained at his bungalow on Wednesday evening for Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Ode C. Nichols, Major and Mrs. Allan Rutherford, Mrs. Robert Kirk, M. J. O. O'Dell, Mr. R. S. Duncan and Capt. B. F. Martin. Capt. Alfred Millard, 64th Inf., left Monday to spend one month's leave in New York.

There is now published at Camp Meade a paper to be known as "The Hour Glass," of the 7th Division and Camp Meade. The first issue appeared on March 12. Lieut. Col. Ode C. Nichols, Inf., is editor, Lieut. John H. Gibson associate editor, and Pvt. John H. Shaw, 34th Inf., circulation and advertising manager.

Chaplain Rixie, Major Parker and others of the Camp Funston post of the American Legion, which post was dissolved when the 7th Division changed station to Camp Meade, have signed their willingness for the state post of Kansas to use the money, nearly $600, to place a bronze memorial tablet in the Memorial Hall of the Legion at Topeka.

The 12th Infantry, commanded by Col. G. W. Helms, gave a dance last evening in honor of the commanding general of the 3d Corps Area, Brig. Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite, who was present with his staff. There were also present the camp commander, General McGlachlin, with his staff, Adjutant General Rockford, Maryland N.G., and staff, Col. Washington Bowie and staff, 5th Md. Inf., and a number of other officers from Camp Meade and elsewhere, including most of the brigade and regimental commanders of the 7th Division and commanding officer and staff of the Tank Corps.

Miss Elizabeth McGlachlin has returned home after a two weeks' visit with Mrs. L. Walthall, wife of Major Walthall, and Mrs. W. R. Woodward, wife of Major Woodward, at West Point.

Upon the completion of a brick building now under course of construction in front of the main entrance to the Federal prison, all guns and ammunition will be removed from the prison and stored in this building. This measure has been adopted in order to prevent any possible seizing of the arms by prisoners in case of an outbreak. The building is two stories high and in addition to housing the guns will be used as an observation tower by the outside guard. There will be but one entrance to the first floor of the armory and this will be guarded by a steel door locked from the inside.

The soccer tournament of the season started on the Y.M.C.A. athletic field on Saturday. Two games were scheduled and at the "kick off" all four teams were on the ground ready and in the pink of condition. The first to take the field were the Quartermaster Corps vs. Company I, 49th Infantry. Both played hard and when time was called the score stood 2 to 2. The second game between Company L and the Post Hospital was one of the best. The Post Hospital were victors, 5 to 2. The Y.M.C.A. is presenting a cup and also banner trophy to the winning team and much interest is felt in the outcome.

VANCOUVER BARRACKS.

Vancouver Barracks, Wash., March 5, 1921.

After our season of "Oregon mist" we welcome the sunshine that has come to us during the past two or three weeks. Major O. E. Delaplane, post commander, has taken advantage of the opportunity thus afforded and put on several parades. Team work, discipline and training are beginning to show results. Under the régime of Lieut. Rex H. Burger, athletic officer, boxing has been revived at the post. A successful smoker was held in the post theater March 1.

In compliment to her sister, Mrs. J. F. Leverich, of Tacoma, Mrs. Adrian L. Orrill gave a bridge party Feb. 25, assisted by Mrs. O. Closset, of Portland. Mrs. Channing E. Delaplane poured. Those present were Mrs. C. E. Delaplane, F. C. Baker, W. A. Platts, W. P. Currier, Charles A. Bell, Clyde Kelly, Frank Fulton, Portland; J. F. Leverich, Tacoma, and Miss Edith Parsons, Washington, D.C.; Miss Byrne and Miss Kennedy.

The Officers' Club gave an informal Valentine party at the clubhouse Valentine's evening. Nearly all the officers and ladies of the post were present. Mrs. Robert Stanfield, wife of Oregon's new Senator, was a guest of the evening.

Mrs. Channing E. Delaplane on March 2 gave a three-table bridge party and tea to the ladies of the post in honor of her guest, Miss Edith Parsons, of Washington, D.C. The following were present: Mrs. F. C. Baker, who poured tea, and Mrs. W. P. Currier, W. A. Platts, F. B. Hodson, Clyde Kelly, Adrian L. Orrill, J. F. Leverich, Tacoma; Charles A. Bell, John D. Goodrich, Berton F. Bronson and the Misses Anna M. Trotter, Byrne and Kennedy.

Mrs. Rex H. Burger left Feb. 15 for Chicago, to visit her mother, Mrs. Anna E. Sandmeyer.

The married non-commissioned personnel of the post have formed a club which meets at the Service Club on Thursday afternoons and evenings. Miss Anna M. Trotter, hostess of the Service Club, gives an informal tea each Saturday.

FORT HUACHUCA.

Fort Huachuca, Ariz., March 2, 1921.

The Buffalo Bulletin notes that Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Malin Craig and Col. and Mrs. Straub were guests of Colonel Winans over Washington's Birthday. A dance was given at the Officers' Club in their honor on the night of Feb. 22. The new tables of organization are here and are nice to look at, says the Bulletin, but when it comes to fitting the band into the supply troop, or service troop, as it will be called, there will be a lot of temperamental artists whose feelings will be hurt by the discordant bray of even the prize mules. Sub-headquarters in a troop of the platoons will give a dignity to some sergeant. Imagine him using stationery marked "Headquarters, 1st Rifle Platoon, Troop —, 10th Cav." Gunners, too, are somewhat new in a troop; likewise the cook for the squadron commander.

Col. R. J. Fleming, U.S.A., who served with the 10th Cavalry from May, 1898, and with brief exceptions continued until January, 1917, has written Major E. L. N. Glass, editor of the Bulletin, recalling his duty with the regiment and saying that he looks back on his service with the 10th Cavalry with the greatest pleasure and left it with regret.

The Bulletin in its issue of Feb. 26 contains a photograph of a number of veteran non-commissioned officers of the 10th, several others being omitted from the picture owing to their absence from the post or being on duty when the photograph was taken. Those who are shown include Sergs. George Smith, Ernest S. Washington, William W. Thompson, James T. Pomeroy, James F. Booker, Mitchell A. Harris, Peter Bigstaff, John A. Sanders, William F. Scott, James Armstrong, John H. Pappy, Thomas Jordan, Hamp Clews, Samuel Smith, Andrew Lewis, Allan Peterson, William Floyd, Alonzo J. Day, Samuel H. Alexander, Charles H. Key and Voder Henry. They are a snappy, soldierly looking lot. Each man wears one or more decorations. The boxing contest at Amusement Hall on Feb. 22 was a most exciting and satisfying affair and created much enthusiasm.

FORT CLARK.

Fort Clark, Texas, March 2, 1921.

The Chaplain's Bulletin notes that Col. Edward Anderson was guest of honor at a "stag" dinner given on Feb. 23 by the officers of the post on the eve of his departure for the Philippines. Every officer of the garrison was present. After the dinner, which was made interesting by snappy toasts and remarks, a "long-eared, desert Cavalry mount" was led into the banquet hall on "full pack review." The band of the 13th Cavalry furnished a splendid musical program. Later the ladies of the post joined the officers at the club, and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing. As Colonel Anderson took his departure all the officers and ladies gathered on the balcony of the club to bid him farewell.

The 13th Cavalry is fortunate in having Col. Roy B. Harper succeed Colonel Anderson, says the Bulletin. The transition is a natural one; everyone knows what to expect. The regiment has served for two months under Colonel Harper, and his well defined policies and executive ability leave no room for speculation and uncertainty. We are sure that new lustre will be added to the splendid record and tradition of the 13th Cavalry.

On Washington's Birthday the regiment assembled to observe the ceremonies for the occasion. After an invocation by Chaplain Joseph G. Garrison, who also gave a sketch of Washington's life, there was music by the band, an address by Rev. Dr. Hill, and Colonel Anderson read Lincoln's Gettysburg address. At the close of the exercises he delivered a farewell address to the regiment, saying: "I was well pleased at the showing made by the regiment during the recent inspection and the visit of our Chief of Cavalry. In all my thirty-five years of military life I have never seen an organization make a better showing than you did on the drill field the day General Holbrook reviewed the regiment. It was a beautiful sight—beautiful; and I want to thank the officers and men for their loyalty and splendid work that made this possible. I have never commanded a finer regiment."

Major and Mrs. E. R. Coppock gave a novel party in honor of Miss De Bona on Wednesday evening. Col. and Mrs. Sedgwick Rice and Mrs. Sol Smith, of Camp Michie, Del Rio, dined with Colonel Harper last week. Later they drove to the polo field to witness the game between the 12th and 13th Cavalry teams. Colonel Harper gave a dinner last week in honor of his sisters. Capt. and Mrs. Elmore and Lieut. and Mrs. Shufeldt were guests. Lieut. and Mrs. De Saussure gave a dinner in honor of Colonel Anderson and Major and Mrs. von Kessler on Monday of last week. ## Forhan's FOR THE GUMS

 cannot live in diseased tissue. Gums
 tainted with Pyorrhea
 are dangerously diseased. For not only are the teeth affected,
 but Pyorrhea germs
 seep into the body, lower its vitality and
 cause many ills.

Pyorrhea begins with tender and bleeding gums. Then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the poisonous germs that breed in pockets about them.

Four out of five people over forty have this disease. But you need not have it. Visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection. And keep Pyorrhea away by using Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress—if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums hard and healthy, the teeth white and clean. If you have tender or bleeding gums, start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has already set in, use Forhan's according to directions, and
